Maximum Terms for McGivern, Cullhane

25 Years to Life Sentences

SGT. HUGHES, MCGIVERN AND CULHANE

By Matt Spireng
KINGSTON
"Me freedom, Gary freedom, you time," Charles Culhane told Judge Robert Ecker as he began to pronounce sentence on the pair convicted of murder in the 1968 death of a Westchester County sheriff's deputy. But it was Culhane and Gerald (Gary) McGivern who were given time—25 years to life in prison, the maximum terms allowed by law—as Ecker ignored the interruption and completed his sentence.

The sentencings late Wednesday afternoon culminated the long-delayed and lengthy third trial of the pair, who were once sentenced to die in the electric chair for the murder of Westchester Deputy Sheriff William Fitzgerald during an alleged escape attempt on the Thruway near Plattekill Sept. 13, 1968.

The sentence proceedings themselves were delayed and lengthy as they did not get underway Wednesday until 2:40 p.m.—40 minutes late—and lasted until moments before 4 p.m.

Much of the delay and time spent resulted from motions made by the defense and defendants both in chambers and in open court. In court, proceedings began with a motion by McGivern's attorney, Karen Peters, that the guilty verdict against her client be set aside and a new trial be ordered on the grounds of numerous alleged errors during the three-week trial last month.

Culhane, speaking for himself (his attorney, Henry Rothblatt, did not appear in court and his law partner and nephew, John Rothblatt, who did appear took little part in the proceedings), joined in the motion by Ms. Peters and presented several other motions, all of which were denied by Ecker.

McGivern and Culhane were brought into the courtroom under heavy guard by a large force of sheriff's deputies at 1:35 p.m. Numerous supporters also appeared in the courtroom, and the belongings of some were searched for possible weapons.

Immediately prior to the passing of sentence the defendants were called to stand in front of the judge and were asked if they had any statements to make on their own behalf.

Culhane launched into an impassioned explanation of how he and McGivern have changed during the more than eight years they have already spent in prison on a previous charge.

"We underwent some profound and good changes in our being, brought about by people on the outside who showed concern and love even though we transgressed the laws of society," Culhane said.

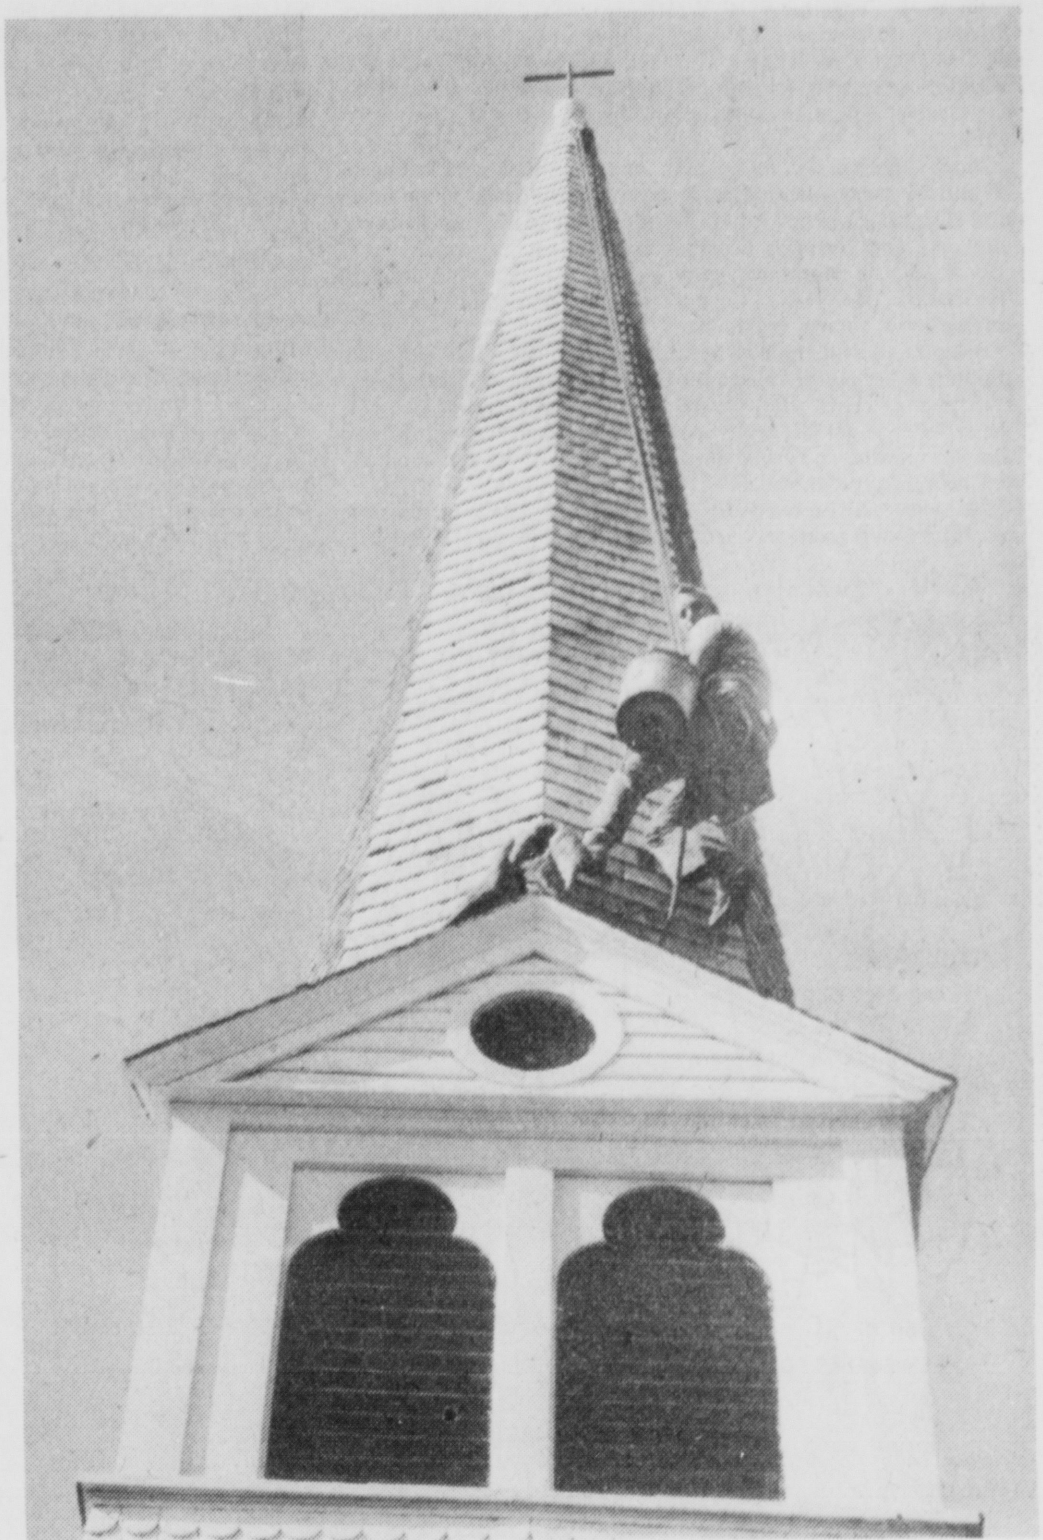

Throwing an arm around McGivern, who returned the gesture, Culhane added, "I know Gary, my brother, has struggled over the years to come to terms with himself."

McGivern said he hoped the appeals courts would fully look at the record of the trial following sentencing.

Ms. Peters, taking note of "an incredible number" of letters written on behalf of the defendants by lawyers, educators, members of the clergy and friends and relatives, said she felt the pair deserved minimum sentences more than any clients she has ever represented.

District Attorney Francis J. Vogt, who appeared with First Assistant DA Michael Kavanagh, asked Ecker to take note of the penalty trial which resulted in death sentences for the pair following their trial in 1971 and said that jury "was so horrified at the backgrounds of the pair that they imposed the death penalty. It is my duty to ask that the maximum sentences be imposed."

As Ecker reviewed allegations and said that the jury "which found McGivern and Culhane guilty in March believed McGivern shot Fitzgerald, McGivern interrupted, "That's untrue before the eyes of heaven."

A Day In Which President Ford Officially Ended Vietnam Era

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Rep. David C. Treen, R-La., said Tulane University had been a "hot spot" of student Vietnam War dissent and shook his head, advising President Ford not to keep a speaking date there.

Other advisers agreed. But at 8 p.m. Wednesday night, Ford walked into the university field house, holding 6,000 students.

He got one boo, from one red-bearded student. The other 6,000 gave Ford 26 rounds of applause, "probably the best" speech reception he has enjoyed since becoming president.

For the President of the United States took the occasion to announce officially that the Vietnam war is now in America's past. He proclaimed the end of the era not with a bang, but not with a whimper either.

"Today America can regain again the sense of pride that existed before Vietnam. But it cannot be achieved by re-fighting a war that it is finished—as far as America is concerned," he said.

The students, many bearded, most long-haired and almost none wearing ties although the university air conditioned the field house for Ford's coming, appeared to lean forward when Ford reached the word "finished."

At the sentence's end, they were on their feet, roaring, cheering and even hugging each other.

The applause lasted 10 seconds.

The president did not smile. He did not accept the applause as a personal tribute. He looked around the hall and nodded slightly.

An hour later, airborne toward Washington, the president told reporters that the Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame, told him no American president had dared speak on a college campus except for a commencement address in 10 years, so high ran student feeling over Vietnam.

Ford explained his choice of a campus to make his announcement:

"It seemed appropriate, if you're going to say it."

Ford did not enjoy saying that a war America had not won was over. "I had mixed emotions. That's not the way I wished it had ended. But you have to be realistic."

In the field house, the president had tickled the students with opening jokes about their football team, New Orleans' new domed stadium and Tulane's rivalry with Louisiana State University. But the students had lapsed into a solid silence while the president went through the usual preamble of saying nice things about the campus, the city and local history.

It was the word Vietnam that stirred them and what Ford said about it that brought them to their feet.

Ford said he outlined his speech plans to aides 10 days ago but decided only Tuesday to declare Vietnam a closed chapter in history. Speechwriter Milton Friedman said Ford completed work on the speech only on the plane from Washington to New Orleans.

Back in Washington today, the President debated whether to give up his request that Congress approve $722 million in arms aid to Vietnam in a war in which he has declared America's role was finished.

What Ford called "a fluid situation" included the mood of Congress. In a session that lasted until early today, the House voted to authorize $327 million for humanitarian aid and evacuation costs. The Senate passed a $250 million version. No arms aid has been approved for what administration officials privately admit was a military lost cause.

Ford called meetings today with aides including Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and vice president Nelson Rockefeller. Aides said Ford was receiving briefings on the situation in Vietnam. These included both the South Vietnamese government's military plight in and around Saigon and the state of the evacuation of Americans and allied South Vietnamese.

Joseph Feraca, up until his resignation two weeks ago, president of the board, gave graphic evidence of the need for additional facilities but expressed some reservation on the site proposed.

Milton Reynolds, a former board member, said simply, "I'm in favor of it and I think we have the data to back it up" (the decision to go to Lake Katrine).

By Hugh Reynolds

KINGSTON
If there was ever any question on what THE big issue is in this year's Kingston Schools Consolidated school board elections it was emphatically answered Wednesday night.

It's the school board's announced intention to build a $15 million new high school in Lake Katrine. And more than 200 persons—believed to be a record turnout—were on hand at WHITA's Meet the Candidates Night at George Washington School.

All eight candidates for the four vacancies up for election on May 6 were on hand and were about evenly split on the main issue.

Opposing plans to build a new high school in Lake Katrine were John Devine, Richard Skala, Josephine McKean and Ronald Meyer. Even those expressing their support fell somewhat short of unequivocal.

Len Cane said statements in the press that he favored the high school in Lake Katrine weren't entirely accurate. He said he felt the present high school was seriously overcrowded and that the school system needed "additional facilities" through not necessarily a new high school and not necessarily a new high school in Lake Katrine.

Joseph Feraca, up until his resignation two weeks ago, president of the board, gave graphic evidence of the need for additional facilities but expressed some reservation on the site proposed.

Milton Reynolds, a former board member, said simply, "I'm in favor of it and I think we have the data to back it up" (the decision to go to Lake Katrine).

Markes' position was similar to Cane's in that he called for additional high school facilities without committing himself to any specific site.

"The condition of the high school to me is something I can't accept," he said. "We cannot go on forever allowing the conditions that prevail at Kingston High School to exist."

Each candidate spoke for five minutes and then fielded two questions from the audience. That was followed by a series of questions from the audience although Harry Thayer, the moderator, restricted questioners to any one candidate, refusing to allow questions directed at all the candidates.

The questioners apparently thought of Feraca as "the incumbent" (though in fact he is not a member of the board) and he fielded most of the questions.

He was asked several times whether the school district was deliberately allowing the old high school to deteriorate—much as in the case of the old city hall—in order to convince the public (more so) that a new high school was needed.

Feraca refuted all such charges, offering as proof several building maintenance projects such as painting and a new roof for the Kate Walton Field House and the high school itself during the past year.

Questions were raised as to the economic impact of a new high school Meyer contended the district could not afford it in light of what he termed its depressed economy. Cane took issue with Meyer on the area's business activity, contending it was on the rise, while Feraca opined that the district could afford a new high school. Devine predicted taxes would rise 20 percent if the new school were built.

Other topics were covered by the candidates—Mrs. McKean discussed the need for improved curriculum and discipline in the schools and Skala, Cane, and Reynolds, discussed the need for improved educational opportunities while Feraca reviewed the accomplishments of the board while he was in office—Feraca reviewed the accomplishments of the board while he was in office—but the main topic was the high school. In the end all the candidates, except Reynolds, agreed that they would support a 60 to 90-day moratorium on plans for the new high school.

City School Board Candidates Divided on High School Question

Daley, News Media At War Son's Engagement

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mayor Richard J. Daley and the city newspapers were at war again today, this time over published reports that the mayor's son, John Daley, plans to wed the daughter of a reputed crime syndicate gambling boss.

The Chicago Daily News and Chicago Tribune carried front page stories Wednesday saying John Daley and Mary Lou Briatta, both 28, plan to wed on June 26 in ceremonies at Our Lady of Pompeii Church.

Mary Lou's father, Louis Briatta, reputedly heads mob gambling operations in Chicago's Loop.

The mayor immediately blasted the press at an impromptu news conference.

"What a great example of Christian attitude, to take an occasion to mar the wedding of two fine people," the 73-year-old mayor said. "There's never anything as low as a newspaper."

Daley said there was no evidence linking Briatta to organized crime.

"Where's the evidence?" Daley demanded. "What was he ever convicted of?"

In 1963 hearings by the U.S. Senate rackets committee, Briatta, 67, was listed as being among 300 men who were full-time members of the Chicago crime syndicate.

Reporters asked Daley to comment on reports that Briatta took the Fifth Amendment while appearing before a Senate subcommittee investigating organized crime.

"That's a person's right under the Constitution," the mayor said. "There is no implication of guilt. A lot of newspapermen have taken the Fifth Amendment in recent months."

Daley said he had met Briatta at softball games and baseball games for youngsters sponsored by his office and was pleased with his son's choice of a bride.

"She's a young girl, a fine Catholic, Italian, and a college graduate, and she does a lot of painting," he said.

John Daley has found himself the target of controversy twice in the last three years, once over a massive shift of city insurance to an insurance agency with which he is connected, and again over his state insurance broker's examination which allegedly was falsified.

House OKs $327 Million In Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It took 15 hours of almost continuous debate, but by early today the House had given President Ford what many liberal Democrats feared: almost unlimited authority to use American troops in an evacuation from Vietnam.

Shortly before 3 a.m. EDT, the House voted 230-187 to authorize $327 million for humanitarian aid and evacuation costs. The debate had begun at noon Wednesday. The Senate Wednesday passed, 75-17, a similar measure which would authorize $250 million.

There is little prospect of military aid, which the President says he is reassessing.

A conference is necessary to work out differences between the two aid bills and work was to begin today.

The Senate measure would provide $77 million for evacuation and $250 million for refugee relief. Carefully drawn terms would permit U.S. troops to evacuate Americans and the South Vietnamese who accompany them, but only until the last of the Americans is rescued.

The House bill would permit $77 million for evacuation and $300 million for humanitarian aid. The only restriction on evacuation procedures is a requirement that the minimum number of troops and the degree of force be used. It would rescind five laws which cut off funds if U.S. troops are reintroduced in Indochina.

Rep. Don Reagle, D-Mich., repeatedly denounced the authority in the measure as "honestly, a blank check" which could involve the United States in a new military operation. Rep. Thomas E. Morgan responded that the authority to use U.S. troops was essential in a large-scale evacuation. Morgan's side had the votes, 262-151.

As of Wednesday, a House leader said fewer than 1,000 U.S. officials and dependents were in Vietnam. There are roughly another 1,000 reporters, contractors, missionaries and the like who can leave any time.

Only a few thousand of the estimated 200,000 Vietnamese allies of the United States have been evacuated. The administration thinks they could be killed or tortured in a Communist takeover.

Republicans booed Rep. Mendel Davis, D-S.C., when he suggested the administration might be "holding Americans in there just to get these funds." It was an indication of the passion of the debate.

"If you think panic reigns in Saigon, you should have checked the temper of this place a few minutes ago," said Rep. Michael Blouin, D-Iowa. "That's the reason why people of this country think the only difference between us and the zoo is that we don't have cages."

At one point in the debate, Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., read a report—since denied as erroneous—that U.S. Marines had landed near Saigon. A scattered burst of applause.

"I ask unanimous consent that those who applauded join them," she shouted.

Reopening Rondout Paper Mill

NAPANOCH
The former Rondout Paper Mill in Napanoch—idled in 1968 because of increased costs and declining business—will resume operations next week under a new and innovative program that promises economic and ecological benefits for the community and county.

Michael Beagelman of Westbury, N.Y., who has been involved in the paper-producing industry for a number of years and who was a recycling enthusiast before recycling became a popular cause, has announced that he has taken over operations of the mill, and will begin producing paper products next week.

Most significantly, Beagelman said this week that between 20 and 25 persons have already been hired to work at the mill, and that he hopes the work force will total 100 within 90 days, once the new business becomes established.

Part of the workforce may come from Ulster County's Temporary Manpower Council which helps find work for unemployed county residents.

Beagelman said the mill will use 100 percent waste paper to produce a variety of "specialty-type" tissues, such as the very thin paper florists use to wrap the stems of flowers. He said he expects to get his waste paper from supermarkets, offices and businesses, and from Boy Scout paper drives and municipal recycling programs.

"It takes a little over one ton of waste paper to make one ton of finished product," said Beagelman, "by comparison, it takes about three tons of wood to produce one ton of finished paper. Our forest resources can't last forever."

Commenting on the folly of discarding waste paper that can be used again, Beagelman said, "We don't throw away a shirt when it gets dirty, we wash it and wear it again. After we drink a glass of water, we don't throw the glass away. We wash it and use it again. The same thing should apply to paper."

Beagelman told the Freeman that he has been interested for some time in operating a paper mill with recycled paper. He said he had a choice between the mill in Napanoch and a similar mill in Jacksonville, Fla., but chose the local facility because there is a greater supply of waste paper resources in this area.

And Beagelman added that considerable encouragement from the New York State Department of Commerce to locate here played a part in his decision.

Beagelman conceded that there is a limited market for the product his mill will produce, but he said he plans to distribute nationwide, as well as abroad.

Beagelman said he is currently negotiating with the Department of Commerce for manpower to work at the mill. Under provisions of the Comprehensive Employment Training Act, if the mill agrees to hire unemployed county residents through the Manpower Training Program, the county will pay half their wages during their training period.

The mill will operate under the auspices of Pearl Tissue, Inc.

'Pushed Bride Into Path Of Car' . . . Witness

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Claudius James Giesick testified Wednesday he pushed his bride into the path of a car as part of a scheme to collect $350,000 in insurance benefits.

Giesick, 27, said he married the former masseuse so he and Samuel Corey could murder her and share the insurance.

Giesick was the prosecution's star witness against Corey, a preacher and former massage parlor operator from San Antonio, Tex., charged with first-degree murder for the Jan. 16, 1974, honeymoon death of Patricia Ann Giesick.

According to Giesick, Corey masterminded the murder scheme and drove the hit and run car that struck Mrs. Giesick on a suburban road.

Mrs. Giesick was once an employee at Corey's massage parlor. Giesick, also of San Antonio, was allowed to plead guilty to manslaughter in exchange for his testimony against Corey. He described events on the night of the death two weeks after Corey performed the couple's marriage ceremony.

"I was leaning against a tree and she was facing me," he said. Corey, Giesick said, stopped nearby in a rented car and exchanged flashlight signals with him.

"I counted three or four seconds, then grabbed Tricia and tripped her," Giesick said.

He said she fell into the street and Corey drove the car over her.

"I actually tried to make her comfortable until the ambulance came," Giesick said. Mrs. Giesick died in Methodist Hospital several hours after being injured.

Giesick said he and Corey talked in the hospital chapel while waiting for his wife to die. He said Corey had consulted a nurse, and returned to tell him: "Don't worry. She's not going to make it. Everything is fine. We're home free."

Giesick said he bought a $350,000 life insurance policy on his wife three days before the death. He said he and Corey both needed money and they planned to share the insurance check.

Murderer Claims SLA Suspects Are Innocent

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Clifford "Death Row" Jefferson, a twice-convicted murderer, Wednesday testified he ordered the death of Oakland Schools Superintendent Mai is Foster and claimed two reputed Symbionese Liberation Army "soldiers" were innocent of the slaying.

Jefferson, a surprise prosecution witness at the murder trial of Russell Little, 25, and Joseph Remiro, 28, pointed to the defendants and said: "I know those guys are innocent. I know beyond a doubt."

"I'm the man who had Marcus Foster killed," the 48-year-old convict declared. Little and Remiro are accused of the November 1973 shooting death of Foster and the attempted murder of Deputy Superintendent Robert W. Blackburn.

Both the defense and prosecution were caught off guard by Jefferson's startling disclosures and they did not press him for details. Likewise, he did not volunteer nor was he asked why he ordered the ambush assassination.

Jefferson, convicted of killing his brother-in-law in 1949 and the 1968 slaying of a fellow inmate at San Quentin, was the founder of the Black Cultural Association at Vacaville prison — the forerunner of the SLA.

Superior Court Judge Elvin Sheehy had sent jurors from the courtroom after Alameda County District Attorney Lowell Jensen said some of Jefferson's testimony would be objected to by the defense.

Jensen asked Jefferson, "Did you talk to Russell Little about whether Marcus Foster should be killed?"

Jefferson replied: "I told Willie Wolfe about it and I may have talked to Russ Little. I said that he (Foster) should be killed."

Wolfe was one of five persons killed in an SLA shootout with Los Angeles police last year. Patricia Hearst later revealed her love for a man with the SLA name "Kujo" in a tape-recorded message. The man was identified as Wolfe.

Judge Rules No Discrimination

WASHINGTON, N.C. (UPI) — Judge Henry A. McKinnon, saying he found no intentional discrimination in the selection of a grand jury, has refused to dismiss an indictment charging a 20-year-old black woman with stabbing to death a white jailer.

The defendant, Joan Little, 62, tried to rape her in her jail cell and she defended herself with an icepick.

After eight days of pretrial hearings, the Superior Court judge ruled against Miss Little's contentions the jury selection process in Beaufort County discriminates against blacks, women and the young.

The body of Alligood was found last August partially clothed in the cell where Miss Little was being held while awaiting an appeal of a breaking and entering conviction. Miss Little fled the jail, but surrendered eight days later, saying Alligood attempted to rape her.

The motion refused by McKinnon, an 18-year veteran of the bench, was the first of 18 pretrial motions Miss Little's attorneys say they will argue before the trial actually begins.

In his ruling, McKinnon said there are certain shortcomings to the jury selection process but added they did not "materially affect the issue with which we are concerned."

McKinnon said he found room for "some improvement" in the procedure for choosing grand juries, but said "no intentional discrimination was followed" in selecting the jury that indicted Miss Little.

There was no visible reaction in the half-filled courtroom to the ruling, and Miss Little, who attended only two of the hearings was not present.

Outside the courtroom, a short demonstration was held by a young group of blacks to protest the ruling. Black Panther leader Larry Little said, "This man (McKinnon) did not want to set a precedent."

Tornadoes In Missouri

By UPI

Tornadoes buzzed through portions of Missouri Wednesday, killing one person and injuring several others, and brush fires crackled through the tinder-dry woodlands of Connecticut.

Thunderstorms and scattered tornadoes buffeted the middle Mississippi Valley.

The worst tornado swooped down on the small town of Breckenridge in northwestern Missouri, ripping up two blocks of town, damaging about 20 buildings, downing power lines and killing Virgil Carter, about 70. Caldwell County sheriff's deputies said Carter was "blown out" of his home when it was destroyed by the twister.

At least three other persons were injured but none required hospitalization.

Thirty miles east in Brookfield, Mo., eight persons were trapped by debris in the basement of a house.

Family Of Six On Missing Plane

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A plane carrying six members of a Florida family attempting to land in a light haze crashed into Lake Ponchartrain Wednesday night. The Coast Guard said today there were no signs of survivors.

Bill Odom, the assistant controller at the Coast Guard's Rescue Center, said the six persons on board the plane were a man, his wife and four children from Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Odom said he could not release the identity of the family.

Odom said the control tower at the Lakefront Airport had not been in direct communication with the private plane but it did monitor its last radio message broadcast, when the plane was 4 1/2 miles from the shore of the 18-mile-wide, 30-mile-long lake.

"Mayday! Mayday! Am over the water and about to splash," the pilot radioed in his final message.

At that moment the plane disappeared from the control tower's radar screens.

The Coast Guard dispatched helicopters to find the exact crash site.

Odom said the visibility at the time of the crash was three to four miles because of a light haze.

"The haze is not bad weather to fly in," the Coast Guard spokesman said. "But it is strange he (the pilot) didn't have his landing lights on since he was on an instrument landing and it was after dark."

The Coast Guard ordered a team of divers to look for the aircraft.

No one saw the plane crash and air controllers said the pilot offered no evidence to indicate what could have caused the accident.

Schermerhorn Hits Carey Policies

ALBANY Gov. Carey's environmental policies would bring "a screeching halt" to all construction in the state, State Sen. Richard E. Schermerhorn warned Wednesday.

The 40th District Republican also attacked Carey's position that would allow any persons in the state to bring action to prevent unreasonable pollution damage, destruction or impairment of environmental resources without having to show that the party objecting is specially aggrieved or has a property right that is violated.

"Think of this," Schermerhorn said. "My 11-year old daughter could stop a project in Buffalo if she chose to do so. Incredible, isn't it?"

The Cornwall senator said that he and his colleagues recently received a message from Gov. Carey stating his position on preserving the natural environment.

The program was prepared in cooperation with Ogden Reid, commissioner of the Department of Environmental Conservation.

"If Gov. Carey is successful in his efforts to pass legislation that would realize what he is suggesting, it would bring a screeching halt to all construction of a minor or major nature in the state," he said.

"For a governor to suggest such a program when the state is on the brink of a major depression, is shocking to me," Schermerhorn said.

The senator suggests that "we follow the position of President Ford who asked that all environmental and conservation studies be laid aside for a period of five years while government attempts to strengthen our economy."

"Schermerhorn said that "at this moment there is $2 billion worth of work in the Hudson Valley that has been stalled due to the lack of final environmental and conservation impact studies." These projects include the rail link between Stewart Airport and New York City, the Cornwall-Con Ed project, lengthening of Stewart Airport runways and the additional three lanes to the Newburgh-Beacon Bridge.

"It is my position that we should have a moratorium on all environmental conservation studies and legislation for a period of time so that we may move ahead with construction that will allow our people to earn a reasonable living for their families so that they may continue to live in dignity," he concluded.

Answers Stand By Krupsak

ALBANY State Sen. Richard E. Schermerhorn, who in the past has refrained from responding to Lt. Gov. Mary Anne Krupsak's remarks regarding state government made an exception today saying he finds himself "compelled to answer her position as it related to the Department of Commerce."

"For someone who has asked for a million dollars more than the previous lieutenant governor spent to run the office of lieutenant governor, it is shocking to me to think that she would now like to render ineffective a department that is so vitally needed in this time of economic stress," the 40th District Republican said.

"If there is one department that I would strengthen at this time, it would be the Department of Commerce. I think it is important that the legislature assist Commissioner Vito J. Castellano in all of his efforts to attract industry to the State of New York, thereby creating jobs and reducing our unemployment rolls," Schermerhorn said.

"Since this department accounts for only one-tenth of one percent of the total state budget, why in the name of good government would a top executive of this state single out this department in an effort to save $1.7 million dollars?" he asked.

"I am notifying Commissioner Castellano today that he can count on my office to assist him in his efforts at any time he feels we can be of help," the senator concluded.

Congressional Action Reported

WASHINGTON, D.C. Congress took swift action this week to undo a federal court's damaging decision, allowing work to go forward on many vital public works projects in New York State, including the Newburgh-Beacon Bridge and the Spring Valley By-Pass, according to Congressman Benjamin A. Gilman (R-26th Dist.).

Rep. Gilman sponsored legislation in March to amend the National Environmental Policy Act to allow states to prepare environmental impact statements for federally-funded highway projects, after the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit (New York, Connecticut, Vermont) had ruled that the law did not allow the federal government to delegate that authority to the states.

"The federal government has neither the resources nor the personnel to conduct these studies as the court required," Gilman said, "and as a result, a great many vitally needed highway projects are frozen." Two bills substantially identical to Gilman's legislation were approved Monday by the House.

Speaking on the floor of the House in support of the legislation, Gilman declared: "If this legislation is not swiftly enacted, New York State and other states will be prevented from sharing equally in the forthcoming distribution of $2 billion in recently released highway funds."

"The court's decision has had a severe impact on my Congressional District," Gilman said on the House floor, citing the $98 million Newburgh-Beacon Bridge and the $27 million Spring Valley By-Pass projects. "These excessive delays in construction, resulting from the court's decision, not only block the progress of vitally needed public works but also impede and impose further burdens on our distressed economy, and will result in inflated project costs."

Power Authority Plans Hearing

NEW YORK

A public hearing has been scheduled on proposed acquisition by the New York State Power Authority (SPA) of the Indian Point 3 Nuclear Station located at Buchanan near Peekskill.

SPA Chairman James A. FitzPatrick said the hearing will be held May 22 at 10 a.m. at the Hendrick Hudson High School at Montrose near Buchanan.

Acquisition of the unit by the SPA from Consolidated Edison Co. was authorized at the 1974 session of the Legislature because of the then-severe financial plight of the utility, which serves New York City and Westchester County. The proposed acquisition is subject to approval by the SPA trustees.

Completion of construction and start of electrical production is expected later this year.

Payment to Con Edison for its investment in the plant will be based on expenditures to the date of acquisition if the SPA purchases the plant. The payment will be subject to approval by State Comptroller Arthur Levitt. Independent audits of Con Edison's expenditures are continuing.

The Indian Point unit has a scheduled generating capacity of about 965,000 kilowatts.

The SPA expects to sell about $590-million in bonds to finance acquisition, completion of construction, nuclear fuel, future environmental studies, facilities to insure independent operation of the plant, parts inventories and required bond reserve.

Funds for acquisition, completion and other costs would be financed by sale of SPA bonds and notes to private investors without use of tax monies or any form of state credit.

SPA projects are operated and bonds are repaid using revenues from operations.

The SPA has acquired and is building the Astoria 6 oil-fired unit in New York City, the other Con Edison plant covered by last year's acquisition authorization. The plant is scheduled for completion in 1976.

The two facilities have been subjected to detailed engineering evaluations and financial audits by independent consultants, in addition to SPA staff members. The firms are Arthur Young and Company, accountants, and Stone and Webster Engineering Corp. They were retained by the Authority to provide an independent analysis of Con Ed's investment in the facilities and the cost to the Authority of acquiring the plants and placing them in operation.

Adopt a Pet

Editor, The Freeman:

On Tuesday evening, April 15, at approximately 8:20 p.m. my boyfriend and I were riding up Main Street when we saw a small animal dead in the middle of the road. Here was a small cat left to die, and the person who hit it didn't even have the humane decency to move it to the side of the road. Whoever you are, I hope you had a peaceful night's sleep. How someone could be so cruel, I simply don't understand. We moved the cat to the side of the road and found the owners who were truly heartbroken. To the owners of the cat, all I can say is that there are beautiful, sweet little, clean kittens waiting for you to adopt them at the SPCA.

A great, hearty thanks should go out to the staff at the Ulster County Shelter. They have done a tremendous amount of work, cleaning and redoing the shelter. The animals are no longer filthy and full of diseases. The pets are well cared for, the pens are clean, and many of the dogs and cats are already spayed. No one but the staff workers know how difficult and depressing it is to see those poor animals get put to sleep because no one wants them. They have done their share of work, now the rest should be left to us. Please! Have your female pet spayed. It may cost you a few dollars now, but it will save you a lot of money and misery in the end. If you don't have your pet fixed, don't be so cruel as to take the mother and her litter to the SPCA. After all, it's your fault. Spaying your dog or cat also makes them a better pet. Those old wives' tales about your cat turning into a fat, furry beast, and your dog getting ugly and lazy just aren't true.

So, please, remember, there is a friendly, harmless litter pet waiting for your love and your life over at the SPCA. Staff members, once again, congratulations for a job well done; keep up the fine work. It's our Ulster County SPCA, let's help them make their job easier. Have a heart, adopt a pet!

Thank you,
JOLIE DUNHAM

Police Control

Editor, The Freeman:

I should like to set straight certain statements made in your editorial of April 14, 1975, regarding the action of the NAACP and myself as its attorney respecting police officer Feraca.

What is the action all about? The fundamental question is whether the educational system should be dictated by policemen. If Feraca had been right in the first place and now under the amendment to the Education Law it is not one police officer (Feraca) to be feared but any number of policemen on the school board. There is no place in our democracy for our educational system in Kingston or any other place to be under the control of policemen. Policemen can and should serve a valuable service but not on school boards.

It was not Everett Hodge or myself that made the law excluding police officers from serving on boards of education. This exclusion was based upon statutes and case law made by judges in many courts in this state. Similarly, the law is clear that when an individual takes an oath for a city office (school board member) ipso facto he vacates his other city office (police officer). Neither

Mr. Hodge, the NAACP nor myself had anything to do with this law.

Officer Feraca faced with adverse decisions by the Commissioner of Education and the Supreme Court nevertheless went further and assumed the presidency of the Board. Now that he realized he would again lose in his appeal to the Appellate Division and aware that the Appellate Division might not decide within the time required under the Election Law for the filing of his petition as candidate (April 16, 1975) he resigned just before the argument of the case in that Court on April 18, 1975.

It is unfortunate that Mr. Feraca, an officer of the law, finds himself in this confrontation with the law and a victim thereof. I am sure that in his duties as an officer of the law he expects others to observe the law.

Let me make something else very clear. Neither Mr. Hodge, the "well financed" NAACP, nor Mr. Faulkner is seeking to have Mr. Feraca return any moneys to the County. This has never been claimed by any of us.

Just a brief comment about their support of Feraca and the accusations of Senators Mason and Schermerhorn. As legislators making laws they should know that we are a nation of laws and not of men.

Finally, it is important to realize that under the present law (proposed by Senator Schermerhorn and former Assemblyman Bell) it is not one police officer we are talking about on the Board of Education but the possibility of a majority or even all members of the Board being police officers. Is this what the people want? I hope not.

Sincerely yours,
STANLEY

Building 201

IBM

Kingston, N.Y. 12401
Dear Mr. Wheeler:

Over the past several years, we have had many students participate in your Secretarial Cooperative Work Experience Program. The benefits to the students and to the school have been immeasurable; our students have received excellent training under actual business conditions and have received the added advantage of a year's experience when they went out to apply for full-time jobs. Their maturity increased two years in one, their outlook toward the world of work took on new dimensions, and their influence on fellow classmates who were not in the Program was very positive.

I realize that IBM can operate very well without this program; you probably are giving much more than you are getting from taking raw, untrained teenagers and turning them into competent, confident, and skilled secretaries. I want, as a teacher, to compliment IBM and its very able supervisors, Anita Shon and Pat Lane, for what it has done. I know that my students who have been fortunate enough to take part in the program also thank you. They speak of their experiences at IBM as the things which helped them the most in their high school careers. You are doing our students and our school a most worthwhile service.

No-Fault Ruling

State Supreme Court Justice George Nicols, in a surprise decision earlier this week, ruled New York's no-fault insurance law "void in its entirety." Certainly reflecting the thoughts of many motorists, the Brooklyn jurist cited many flaws in the law that he felt were discriminatory and had "no rational basis." Specifically, Justice Nicols singled out the provision requiring an accident victim to have incurred $500 in medical expenses before being allowed to sue for pain and suffering. Pointing out that medical expenses can vary from locality to locality, and that those who can afford higher medical fees reach the threshold more rapidly, the opinion stated that no-fault provided immunity to a wrongdoing driver from being held liable if medical expenses fell within this limited category.

Justice Nicols also had some harsh words for the proponents of no-fault who had promised substantially lower insurance rates. Any of us who insure our cars know that this has not come about. In fact, as the judge pointed out, additional premiums had to be paid if a New York motorist wants to be sure of coverage while driving in the nearby states of Connecticut, Massachusetts or New Jersey. A spokesman for Attorney-General Louis Lefkowitz said an appeal of the ruling would be immediately put into the works. Rather than an appeal, a new no-fault law that would give the benefits promised would be more appropriate.

New Discoverer

Yet another theory about who "discovered" America has been put forward by a Harvard University linguist, Prof. Barry Fell. He thinks there is sound reason to believe that a Phoenician seafarer named Hanno reached the Atlantic coast of North America around 475 or 480 B.C. This antedates even Leif Ericson by approximately 1,500 years.

The case made by Fell is far from conclusive as matters now stand. He places his chief reliance on his translation of words carved on a stone displayed at a historical society in Bourne, Mass.

The stone, discovered by New England settlers in 1658, has since been assumed to be of Norse origin. Professor Fell maintains that the inscription is not Norse, but written in a southern Iberian alphabet. Inscriptions found on other stones and deciphered, according to Fell, by "Spanish scientists," indicate that Hanno was not only a voyager but a king in what is now southern Spain.

In further support of his views Fell cites a 10th century Greek account of a voyage by Hanno along the west coast of Africa. The Harvard linguist says the Greeks also "remembered he had circumnavigated the northern ocean." It is not wholly persuasive, but certainly intriguing. Perhaps, after all, it was not a Norseman but the Phoenician King Hanno who first set foot on North America.

Berry's World

"WELL! Apparently the anti-smoking movement is becoming MILITANT!"

By Jack Anderson with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — It has been our lot to chronicle the tragedy of Chile.

In 1972, we published secret documents which proved CIA and ITT had plotted together to block the late Salvador Allende from coming to power.

But Chile had such strong democratic traditions that Allende, although a Marxist, couldn't be stopped from assuming the presidency because he had more votes than any other candidate.

Thereafter, the CIA and ITT sought to undermine the Allende regime, we reported, by sabotaging the Chilean economy. We quoted from secret U.S. embassy cables of a "sharpening economic crisis."

Still, the embassy advised Washington: "Chileans have great ability to rush to the brink, embrace each other and back off. With Russian and East European help, some debt relief . . .

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Details of More Tragedy in Chile and some breaks, Chile just might be able to rock along for some time to come."

Chile's democratic traditions, we reported, should keep the army at bay. Again we quoted the embassy's secret cables: "Prospects of military intervention for foreseeable future are extremely small."

The embassy was wrong. The generals moved against Allende, left him dead in the presidential palace and imposed a military dictatorship upon Chile.

This most democratic of South American nations suddenly was transformed into a harsh police state. Evidence was smuggled to us of widespread political arrests and torturing.

Now we have received even more depressing documents smuggled out of Chile by our sources — as before, at great risk to themselves and their families.

These documents show that the military junta has taken over the nation's schools, has forced upon them a curriculum of "national security" studies, has assigned soldiers to monitor the classrooms and has organized a secret spy system to check upon the loyalty of students, teachers and administrators.

Our own National Education association, which has been keeping track of teacher oppression in Chile, reports that hundreds of professional educators have been dismissed and jailed. Some of them, according to reliable reports, have been cruelly tortured.

We have obtained copies of a "denunciation" form, which the junta has distributed to students and teachers for use in reporting on the attitudes and behavior of their peers.

The form asks for a "history" of the subject, including information that would help at "the interrogation." Persons filling out the form are asked to "evaluate" their colleagues on a scale of one to 10 for "fanaticism," "audacity," "dangerousness," "possibilities of a re-education."

The smuggled documents also include a memo from the education minister to the defense minister, discussing "the teaching of national security courses in educational institutions."

The memo instructs the defense minister to appoint "advisers to the schools" and to name "the officers who will be appointed to teach the classes."

At the university level, according to the memo, students will receive 96 hours of "theoretical" and "practical" instruction. The theoretical program covers such subjects as "internal threats," "subversion," "political deviations" and "political and ideological aggression."

The practical program consists of "attendance in a national defense department installation or unit for a minimum period of three months."

Not only students but their parents are summoned to the high schools to attend meetings. "Failure to attend," warns one notice, "will be more than sufficient reason to proceed with your immediate arrest."

Footnote: The Chilean embassy in Washington explained to us that the "denunciation" forms, used by students and teachers to report derogatory information on one another, were circulated immediately after the military dictatorship seized power to uncover the radicals on the campuses. Our own sources report, on the contrary, that the forms were still in use just a couple of months ago. The Chilean embassy offered no comment on the other charges.

WATCH ON WASTE: Tall, tweedy Secretary of the Interior Rogers C. B. Morton, the country squire from Maryland's eastern shore, likes to fly around in chartered airplanes and drive around in rented limousines. The taxpayers, of course, are stuck with the bills.

We have had access to his travel vouchers, which show he has chartered private planes to fly as far as Alaska and as near as his Easton, Md., home. A single charter flight to Alaska cost the taxpayers $21,868.

When Morton arrives at an airport, he doesn't hail a cab like lesser passengers. He rents a Cadillac to drive him around. His vouchers show he often spends more than $200 for limousine service on a single trip.

By an interesting coincidence, Morton did most of this traveling during the 1972 presidential election. He ran up a whopping $121,682 in travel bills in 1972, compared to only $43,982 the following, nonpolitical year.

All of these bills, of course, were charged to the taxpayers. The vouchers show, moreover, that most of his 1972 charter flights were billed during the campaign months of August through September. Most stops, he gave political speeches urging the re-election of President Nixon.

Morton has just been appointed secretary of commerce, with worldwide responsibilities. He will now have an excuse to add international jet flights to the bill she charges to the taxpayers.

"Curse You, Red, White and Blue Baron!"

By William F. Buckley

Back when they were discussing in the Senate the mandate of the Watergate committee, an obstreperous Republican senator made bold to suggest that the committee explore irregularities committed not only in 1972, but in other presidential election years. Indeed, that Democratic behavior be investigated also. He was shouted down, and the public on the whole was not resentful: there was quite enough to do just to investigate the Watergate scandal.

But evidence piles up of Democratic shenanigans, and nobody seems to care. A few weeks ago I reported on a new book by Mr. Benjamin Bradlee of the Washington Post in which he gabbles on quite outspokenly about such matters as Mayor Daley's alleged intervention for the benefit of John F. Kennedy when ballot-counting time came in 1960. Yawn.

A few years ago, lecturing at the University of Texas, I was introduced by a historian who took great delight in saying: "Mr. Buckley's grandfather was a law-and-order sheriff of Duval County who died in 1908. But I have done a little research, and no doubt Mr. Buckley will be startled to learn that his grandfather voted for Lyndon Johnson in 1948." That sort of thing brought laughs in those days; and, to tell the truth, still does, since the recent commotion notwithstanding, Americans expect their politics to be a little naughty, and are sometimes disappointed if it proves otherwise. But right now, as I see it, there is something not to be distinguished from theft going on right under our eyes. It is being presided over by the Senat Rules Committee. The issue is whether Louis Wyman Republican, or John Durkin, Democrat, was elected Senator in New Hampshire last November.

The victory, you will recall, was at first claimed by one of the gentlemen. The other demanded a recount, which supported him. The first demanded a recount of the recount, which supported him. The courts of New Hampshire said they had no authority to call a fresh election, so the issue went to the Senate, which is constitutionally charged with passing on the qualifications of its members.

Senator Howard Cannon, as chairman of the Rules Committee, found himself pleasantly situated presiding over a group of five Democrats and only three Republicans. The idea has been for the committee to go over the disputed ballots and decide whether the voter intended to vote for Wyman or Durkin.

In an extraordinary ruling, Senator Cannon said that where the Rules Committee having surveyed the ambiguous ballot, split 4-4 on the intention of a particular voter, the entire ballot would be thrown out. But that procedure is hardly consistent with the tradition of parallel procedures. If the Supreme Court ties 4-4 on an appeal, the ruling of the lower court stands. Most of the ballots that are being thrown out are Wyman ballots. Moreover, Senator Cannon wants to examine only those ballots that had been given to Wyman, letting Durkin's stand. Voting 4-4 has the mathematical effect of subtracting one Republican vote.

Then there is the so-called "Skipjohn" problem. Suppose you circle the heading REPUBLICAN on the ballot, meaning that you want to vote the entire Republican ticket. But then, for some reason, you go down the list and start ticking off the individual names. You come to the name

Louis Wyman, and, unaccountably, you leave it blank. Now, New Hampshire practice specifies that in such circumstances, where you have "skipped John," John nevertheless gets voted for—unless his name is specifically struck through by a pencil mark. For some reason, Senator Cannon has ruled that such ballots ought to be voided altogether. And so it goes.

The point is, the Rules Committee seems bent on giving the election to the Democrat by a fine orchestration of rulings the effect of which is to diminish Wyman's vote and increase Durkin's. The simple thing would be to rule that the election is, to use the traditional language "a virtual tie."

Thus the Senate would declare a vacancy, and New Hampshire would schedule a fresh election between 35 and 45 days later. Wyman and Durkin could campaign, and the wishes of the electorate would be respected. Meanwhile, the state of New Hampshire is being deprived not only of a Senator but, most probably, of the senator that squeaked through with a narrow majority. The partisanship is beginning to smell, and it would be nice, now, for the Democrats to show us by objective action that the entire Watergate experience has impressed upon them the need for cleaner politics not only among Republicans, but also among Democrats.

Nicholas Von Hoffman:

The Cocaine Culture—Part I

BEVERLY HILLS, CALIF. — "I'd rather have two Pacemakers than one Mercedes," a woman was overheard to say the other day while having dinner in a restaurant that charges only slightly less than $5 a string bean. While the rest of America worries and wonders how it will make it to the next paycheck, the problem here is how to spend it and send it so everybody can see you're spending it.

After you've bought the art deco house with the classical revival pillars by the front door, where the Rolls-Royce Silver Cloud and the Mercedes sports car are parked—the second for quick runs to the grocery store—what do you spend your money on? At Mr. Guy's you can achieve the much-sought-after rich, casual look by paying $32.50 for a blue denim work shirt. Females can spend $175 for a pair of imported French jeans that come pre-patched or embroidered with flowers in the crotch.

If you're a $3 million-a-year rock star—and that means you're not a very big one—or a record company vice-president or a sharp Beverly Hills tax lawyer or a hot producer of records or films, that also means you're still left with a lot of money that you have to spend. It has come home to you that you can buy anything and do anything, and you've got to do it. How do you solve your problem? You get into cocaine.

"The status symbol is how large your stash is and how casually you're willing to part with it," says one music industry person. "I know guys who take out the little bottle and, when they pass it around, they'll say, 'Go easy on that, man. It's got to last me to next payday.' And I know ladies—you know those kinds of chicks who used to see at Acapulco in bikinis with the little gold chain around the waist and the small silver-wrought fish on the neck, well, you see those ladies now in $1,000 worth of blue jeans, the same amount or more in Indian or turquoise jewelry. But this time they have a little spoon hanging from the neck and $2,000 worth of cocaine in their purse."

It's said that the prices on tiny antique European gold and silver spoons have gone out of sight. The same must be true for miniature inlaid or enameled boxes in which to carry to precious stuff.

Precious is the word for it. "The going price runs anywhere from $65 to $150 a gram," says another music type, "depending on how many times it's been stepped on and the reliability of the source." To step on it means to cut it, and it is frequently cut with imported Italian baby powder, quinine or procaine—for the white market. Speed is more in favor in the black community. Since coke is a rather swift drug itself, the effect of mixing it with uppers must be more than a little racey-spacey.

The best and cheapest cocaine is doctor-prescribed. The word is that some doctors have been prescribing it for an imaginary epidemic of piles. That has given rise to a certain number of scatological jokes here, but as one observer of this newest example of conspicuous consumption says, "Prescription cocaine is only for real rich guys. That kind of doctor will only deal with somebody who's got more to lose than himself. It's a Beverly Hills trip."

Everybody else has to buy from a dealer. Who the big dealers are is an unsettled question. Some people say it's American Indians who, at long last, have found their own racket to latch on to. "Crap," says a lawyer, who claims to be in a position to know about such things. But everybody agrees that the biggest dealers drive the biggest Mercedes, the ones that look like airport limos, with TV in the back which the driver can't see because people here will drop $25,000 on a car if their agent says it will up their fees, but they won't hire a chauffeur.

You get the usual talk about the Mafia and drugs, but that's hard to run down. There's a portion of this community which is perpetually smitten with gangster love so that it's next to impossible to separate the real hoods, of which there is a sufficiency, from the imaginary ones. Some of them here do talk like their own television shows. Contracts and hit men—Hollywood doesn't know if it's making the "Godfather" or living it.

Also in dispute is how large or small a segment of this part of the entertainment business is in the cocaine culture—they say in Nashville they don't even smoke pot—or whether the record companies really do routinely use coke as payola to get their releases radio air play. There's no doubt, however, that the drug is respected as a medium of exchange.

One of our best-known rock stars is supposed to have an entire goldfish bowl of it, worth an estimated quarter of a million dollars, in his house with red-flocked wallpaper, baby swimming pools in the bathrooms with the gold plumbing fixtures, and two bodyguards armed with machine guns to guard it all. "It holds its value better than art in a recession, and if you get part of your legal fees in it, you don't pay taxes on the profits," explained a music man who stopped coking and has gone back to booze.

"I knew this stuff wasn't as harmless as they say when I saw a friend of mine in the business, a $500-a-week snorter, use up a box of Kleenex a day. And the guy doesn't know it. He really thinks he's had the same cold for two years."

Ulster Contractors to Combat Problems

By Tim Schuster

KINGSTON
Ulster County's individual building contractors are thinking of uniting to combat fly-by-night operators, moonlighters, shoddy workmanship, and to gain a political voice.

The individual voices, about 40 of them, at the Villa Roma Wednesday night tossed the questions besetting the businessmen about with State Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey (D-101st Dist.) doing a lot of listening and a little speaking, and George Moyer of the Builders' Association of the Hudson Valley urging the builders to join his organization.

The final consensus of opinion was to hold another meeting in two weeks to elect officers, spell out the express purposes of the new organization, send a committee to Albany to join the Builders' Association for a day of lobbying May 12, and to think of alternative solutions to local problems during the interim. The contractors realized that the economic slump is bringing the problem of unethical builders to a sharp focus. With not enough work to go around and the public increasingly cost conscious, many members of the public apparently will take a gamble with contractors who have no insurance, who employ off-the-book unpracticed help, and some who come into Ulster County from out of the area and leave poor workmanship behind, as well as a bad taste in the public's mouth.

Moyer addressed some of these problems in explaining the work his Newburgh-based operation does. He announced that the Builders Association has gotten approval from the Excelsior Insurance Company for a solid ten-year warranty on structural defects in building a house, something he considered a strong selling point that will offer the consumer recourse against a poor job and, he said, offer the builder preferential treatment from banks.

The contractors decided that joining the Builders' Association was "premature" and agreed to the Albany lobby trip to see first hand the process of political pressuring. They will consider the possibility of joining the association after becoming organized, perhaps as a chapter.

Hinchey and Moyer disagreed on one major point of philosophy—whether or not licensing of professional contractors in New York State would do any good.

Hinchey noted that this is "just in the talking stage" in Albany, but endorsed the idea as a solution to at least part of the builders' problem with adequate supervision. He agreed that "keeping disreputable people from stealing your jobs" was a problem, adding that he thought "the best advertising is word of mouth." He added that licensing would mean the builders are giving something up, some home rule, and should make sure that "what you get in return will more than compensate for that loss."

The assemblyman also promised to continue to meet with the builders on a regular basis, "once a month, if you want to," to find out exactly what problems were being encountered and to give information on state legislation affecting the business. He also promised to continue ways of trying to attract business to Ulster County, "always a depressed area," including getting planned state projects in the county going.

Moyer said that licensing in other states "is not enforced" as hardly ever is a license revoked by the state. "We are watchdogs," he said of the Builders Association. "We are not concerned with the honest builders; we're worried about the rotten apples."

Several contractors were quick to point out that not all moonlighters are unqualified, as some are journeymen union carpenters, plumbers, masons, or electricians out of work.

A wry remark was made just prior to the close of this meeting of builders and subcontractors: "We may all be out moonlighting pretty soon."

Rosendale Must Raise $76,725 By Taxes

By Carl Graham

ROSENDALE
The Village of Rosendale faces a $101,426 general fund appropriation and a $23.82 tax rate for the 1975-76 fiscal year beginning June 1.

Mayor Raivo Puusemp said at Wednesday night's board meeting that anticipated revenues of $24,701 leave the village with $76,725 to be raised by taxes, about $5,000 over this year's figure.

The New rate per thousand of assessed valuation is $2.74 higher than the current figure. Water department appropriations are $27,450, with anticipated revenues of $24,300.

Trustee Barbara DeStefano, noting that $200 in this year's budget was marked for former Mayor Robert Sheehan as budget officer, proposed that the sum be paid only after a budget is received. She said "the village is being ripped off," and Puusemp and Trustee Marc Phelan voted with her to make it unanimous.

Jack Skerritt of 230 James Street presented a petition with about 30 names asking that William Arnold and Robert Gear be removed from the police force because they were unqualified. Puusemp said the board was empowered to conduct hearings on such matters but said, "This document is not enough to call a hearing," and asked Skerritt to be more specific in his charges.

Skerritt then described an alleged incident about a month ago in which he charged that Gear had struck him and tore his coat after an altercation on Main Street. The board then approved Phelan's motion to conduct a hearing on the matter.

Puusemp said the board had held up on appointments to village jobs because it was possible that full-time employes could qualify for civil service status, which would involve several changes. He pointed out that police, now appointed annually, would gain permanent status if this is so.

He said that 11 persons had applied for the building inspector's post vacated by Salvatore Russo. Puusemp said the post would be combined with the assessor's job for the coming year, after which the assessor's position would be dropped, with the village using town tax rolls to determine village assessments. The village will legally advertise for candidates for the combined positions.

Another combination of jobs involves Village Clerk Kathleen Mihm, who takes over the treasurer's job formerly held by Marilyn Grassi. The board voted to pay Mrs. Mihm the combined salaries of the two positions for the remaining two months of the fiscal year.

Puusemp said a state auditor had found the village's books "fouled up, to say the least." He estimated 10 percent of the village was in arrears on taxes, saying some of the confusion might have been caused by failure to properly record property transfers in the past. He called on those who know they are in arrears to cooperate in straightening things out rather than involve the village in lengthy and costly tax sale proceedings. Details of the state auditor's report will be revealed shortly, he said.

Life in Village Concerns Mayor

ROSENDALE

Mayor Raivo Puusemp, expressing concern over the quality of life in the Village of Rosendale, Wednesday night called for formation of a community committee to do something about it.

Puusemp told an audience of 25 persons at the village board meeting that the committee would give village residents a chance to "get involved if they are interested."

Puusemp first called for separate committees for Main Street, businessmen, cultural affairs, youth, and other categories. "Or maybe we should just have a community committee," he said, a proposal that received an enthusiastic response from the audience.

Puusemp said he had contacted several groups in the area that would cooperate in cultural events and noted that several persons involved in the arts who worked in New York City spent weekends here. William Guldry said he had contacted several professional athletes who had expressed a willingness to help out with youth activities and volunteered his services, suggesting a Main Street art festival as another project.

The board voted to hold a meeting at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, May 19, in the village fire hall on Main Street to discuss formation of the committee.

Puusemp commended several persons for their cleanup efforts and urged everyone to cooperate in improving the village's appearance. He said that he hoped the area in front of the firehouse could be improved, with topsoil brought in and trees and grass planted there.

When All The Economic Experts Erred

WASHINGTON (UPI) — They missed it. They didn't see it coming. Even as the U.S. economy sputtered and shrank, many leading economic prognosticators warned only of slack and stagnation.

And so the recession, which has been a hardship for many and a dark threat for millions, also has been a disaster for the reputations and egos of economists.

"We are not," Milton Friedman told President Ford at the summit seven months ago, "and I emphasize the not, in danger of a major depression or even a severe recession."

Ford, newly installed in office, had summoned to Washington's biggest hotel ballroom several hundred heavy thinkers to discuss the economy. He was given a bad prognosis, not only by Friedman, the conservative economist from the University of Chicago, but by many others.

Earlier in September, 1974, at the first of 12 "pre-summit" conferences, 29 economists assembled around Ford at a huge felt-covered table in the White House East Room.

What was said is laid bare in pages of stenographic record, turning yellow and irrelevant except as evidence of how expertise can err.

To be sure, no one predicted a boom. The consensus was a mild slowdown. Former Treasury Secretary George Shultz told Ford the forecasts were so close "you could throw your hat over all of them."

Alan Greenspan foresaw "extraordinarily sluggish growth" and Otto Eckstein predicted "a middling recession."

Greenspan, a conservative, had just taken office as chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. Eckstein, a liberal who teaches at Harvard, served on the council in the 1960s.

It turns out that labor leaders, who are always fearful of unemployment, were closer to the truth.

"We are in a recession," said Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers. "Well, Mr. President, we are in a recession now," thundered AFL-CIO president George Meany. Nathan Goldfinger, the AFL-CIO's economist, spoke of "today's continuing recession."

Greenspan said the doomsayers were overdoing it. "What we are merely seeing," he said, "is a relatively flat and turgid outlook but, nonetheless, even though this sort of outlook does imply increasing unemployment rates, although there are various differences in people's judgments and estimates of where this goes, it is scarcely an outlook which can be described in some of the gloom terms that I have been hearing in the last recent days."

Predicted Eckstein: "A mild recession, a recession of the sort we have experienced five or six times in the postwar period."

Said Beryl Sprinkel, economist and vice president of Chicago's Harris Trust and Savings Bank: "Mr. President, it is my judgment that our economy is neither in a depression or recession. I project slow real growth of 1 to 2 percent...Unemployment is likely to rise moderately to perhaps 5.3-4, maybe at the worst 6 percent."

Of course, the summit's focus was entirely on the frightening phenomenon of double-digit inflation, which Ford had called Public Enemy No. 1.

But recession was clearly under way when the economists gathered. There had been nine months of declining national output. Personal income had stagnated or declined since mid-1973. Unemployment, at 5.8 percent, was higher than any time since 1971. Industrial production, housing starts and manufacturers' shipments had been falling.

A few months ago, economist Arthur Okun of the Brookings Institution said history will record the mid-1970s as a depression, not merely a recession. At the summit, he said: "I think I can affiliate myself with Otto Eckstein's verdict of recession 'yes' and depression emphatically 'no.'"

Ford, who was designing an economic program he would have to abandon hastily, might have gained some valuable skepticism by listening to Walter Hoadley, chief economist of California's big Bank of America.

Hoadley, who predicted "a basically strong economy," added modestly:

"Some of us at breakfast this morning, Mr. President, were talking about this meeting and we obviously agreed on one thing, namely, that we should preach humility because the forecasting business has not been an easy one in recent years."

C-H, Other Utilites Must Give Long-Range Plans

ALBANY — The Public Service Commission has ordered all major gas utilities in the state, including Central Hudson Gas & Electric Company, to submit by July 31 detailed long-range plans for providing adequate supplies to meet the anticipated demand over the next five years.

In the past, the commission has sought two-year forecasts, but it said in the face of "serious curtailments and the prospect that the gas shortage will probably grow worse" it has directed all but nine of the gas utilities under its jurisdiction to make the long-range study.

The commission said it will conduct hearings after the plans have been submitted, but left the time and place of any hearing to be set later.

For the long-range plans the commission directed the companies to provide forecasts and statements covering the five-year period, including the following:

- A forecast of requirements for the next five years, separated by the type of demand.
- A forecast of supply during the period, separated by type.
- An estimate, based on current costs, of the average cost of gas for the next five years, separated as to purchased, produced and manufactured gas.

• A statement on the reliability and price of the mix of supply sources.

• A statement whether the company intends to apply incrementally priced rates to any of its customer classifications.

• A statement of how competitive the company's gas rates will be to various alternate energy sources.

In order to cope with the current shortage, the commission noted, several gas utilities are exploring ways of supplementing their gas supplies.

Many of the projects underway require "the resolution of difficult technological, environmental and governmental problems," the commission said.

The cost impact will be one of the major items studied, according to the commission, with incremental pricing as one alternative to be considered. Incremental pricing would charge the cost of new supplies to customers receiving the benefit of those supplies rather than rolling all costs into an average which is applied to the price of gas to all customers in a service classification as at present.

Senate House Site Is Seeking Vols

KINGSTON The Senate House Historic Site is seeking volunteers to aid in various activities at the museum, according to James P. Gold, Senate House manager.

A volunteer group will be developed to help in the accession of collections, acting as receptionist, and reorganizing the library among other things.

Instruction and supervision will be given and is "absolutely necessary for a successful relationship and program," Gold said.

The accession of collections is continuing at the Senate House with the first floor, and its many items of china, pewter and other accessories nearly finished.

In a few weeks a team from the Bureau of Conservation and Collections Care, Division for Historic Preservation will complete the inventory of the second floor, Gold said.

A trained painting conservator, Miss Joyce Zucker has been examining the museum's more than 150 paintings. Funds will be requested for restorative work.

Gold said that maximum use of the site facilities is welcomed and that at present the Ulster Youth Theatre is using the Loughran House and the Stockade Committee is using the Loughran House barn as well as occasional use of the house.

Bids are scheduled to go out for new roofing for the Senate House with July as a target date for work to begin.

Research is being done in consideration of some changes in the Senate House. The objective is to represent it to the public in its role in the formation of the state government during the Revolutionary War.

Improve 'Adirondack' Comfort

ALBANY New schedules and new improvements in passenger comfort and convenience on "The Adirondack" train have been announced by State Transportation Commissioner Raymond T. Schuler.

The train runs between New York City and Montreal, Canada, in the Albany-Saratoga-Champlain corridor and includes stops at Poughkeepsie and Rhinecliff.

Schuler noted that the track work, station improvements, equipment leasing and refurbishing and the state's share of any operating losses are being funded from the $30 million emergency rail service preservation appropriation made available by the 1974 legislature. Amtrak (National Railroad Passenger Corporation), which operates the service, will participate in any operating deficit.

"In terms of the economic boost to north country tourism, energy savings and environmental progress, this service is already repaying the state's taxpayers for their investment," Schuler said, "and we have every expectation that the service will become financially self-sustaining within a few years."

Effective Sunday, "The Adirondack" will depart Grand Central Station New York City, at 10 a.m. instead of the present 8:30 a.m. It will arrive in Windsor Station, Montreal, at 8 p.m. instead of 6:50 p.m. The southbound train will leave Montreal at 9:50 a.m. instead of the present 9:30 a.m. and arrive in New York City at 7:50 p.m. as at present. This represents a schedule cut of 20 minutes for both northbound and southbound trains.

Also beginning Sunday, the new full-service dining cars which went into service two weeks ago will be available on the entire route from New York City to Montreal. Currently, that service is available only on the Albany-Montreal segment of the trip.

Newly refurbished baggage cars also will be added to the train in about two weeks as an extra service for passengers.

The first of eight coaches scheduled for complete renovation is soon to go into regular service and a second is expected to be delivered later this month. Four more coaches are currently being rebuilt while the remaining pair, now in service, will be sent to the rebuilding contractor shortly. "The Adirondack" passenger equipment, owned by the Delaware and Hudson Railway, is being refurbished by the state as part of the overall railroad improvement program.

The popular dome car, a special attraction of both the northbound and southbound trains since the August inaugural, will continue to be operated between Albany and Montreal. Overhead clearance limitations prevent their use in the Metropolitan New York Area. Schuler said the reconstruction of track sections on the Delaware and Hudson mainline between Rensselaer and Rouses Point was initiated last fall and is now nearly 40 percent complete. Most of the work will be finished this summer. The track rehabilitation will not only permit higher train speeds, but afford passengers a smoother, more comfortable ride, he said.

MAIL-TRACK Testing System Designed to Pinpoint Problem

KINGSTON MAIL-TRACK, a new testing system designed to pinpoint problem areas in mail delivery—and to provide the basis for a solution—will go into effect in 76 major metropolitan areas this spring, according to the U.S. Postal Service.

MAIL-TRACK will give the U.S. Postal Service specific data, in a total of 676 cities, on where delivery slowdowns are occurring and why. The new diagnostic testing device will complement other service measurement systems of the Postal Service.

The information developed from MAIL-TRACK will be used by postal managers for making adjustments in their own operations and for counseling customers on the most efficient ways to use the mail.

Private firms have been contracted to manufacture mail pieces to certain specifications and to enter them into the mail stream at every conceivable point. Likewise, arrangements have been made with contractors to receive the mail at 3,150 addresses throughout the country. The addressees will note the time they receive the mail and report the information to the Postal Service. Information regarding time of receipt and the condition of the mail will be computerized and evaluated to give the Postal Service a complete picture of where service improvements are needed and how customers can modify their mailing operations to receive better service.

Meetings Set In Saugerties

SAUGERTIES
The Town of Saugerties Republican Committee has announced that it will hold a series of neighborhood information meetings dealing with land use planning and the proposed zoning ordinance for the town in May and June.

Exact dates for the meetings have not been determined.

According to Saugerties Republican chairman Michael E. Catalinotto, the meetings will be conducted by members of the planning board and zoning commission. He said the meetings will be held at various central locations throughout the township and will encourage extensive public participation.

Sessions Are Under Attack

SAUGERTIES
Paul Miller, organizer of the Saugerties Citizen Involvement Seminar on Zoning and a Democratic candidate for Saugerties Town Supervisor, has criticized the Town of Saugerties Republican Committee's intention to hold a series of public meetings on land use planning and zoning during the next two months.

Miller said he proposed a similar program which would have included Republican and Conservative Party participation, but it was rejected by the Republican Committee.

Commenting on the neighborhood hearings which will be sponsored by the Republicans, Miller stated, "The League of Women Voters, several members of the town planning board and zoning commission as well as individuals on (the) Republican Committee had already responded favorably to the seminar program we (the Democrats) had proposed. Surprisingly, Mr. Catalinotto (Republican Town Chairman Michael Catalinotto) has not invited the Democrats or Conservatives to join in the neighborhood meeting plan he so belatedly is espousing."

Miller said he thinks the seminars he planned would be superior to the neighborhood meetings planned by the Republicans, but he said he would be willing to postpone his own seminars in favor of the Republican-sponsored meetings. Miller warned, however, that if the GOP hearings are held "ineffectively" the Democrats would revive their own planned seminars.

Surface Rock Contract

NEW YORK CITY
The Lamont-Doherty Geological Observatory of Columbia University has been awarded a contract to develop a technique for measuring and mapping stress present in surface rock formations, an important factor in evaluating an area's earthquake potential.

Financial participation by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, expected to be about half of the $90,000 cost, reflects the federal government's interest in understanding recent seismicity of the eastern United States, including New York.

The "strain relief measurement" being used in the study includes binding sensitive strain measuring gauges to surface rocks.

"Earthquakes represent a sudden release of stress," explained Dr. Warren L. Prell, director of oceanographic and geologic programs for the New York State Atomic and Space Development Authority. "This technique allows determination of the state of stress far more readily and at many more sites than would be possible with more expensive and time-consuming techniques."

Field work will be done during the spring and summer of 1975, laboratory analysis conducted during the spring and fall, and results submitted early in 1976.

Lloyd has the material

If you want to buy fresh beer, buy it from a man who sells a lot of beer. The same is true of lumber. When you don't sell much what you do sell is weathered, split and even warped. And the customer doesn't have the opportunity to select what he wants.

At Lloyd you choose from fresh stock. Throughout 1974 and right now into 1975 Lloyd continues to increase sales of lumber and other construction products. Fast turnover means you get the best. And you get the best prices too.

Before you buy construction materials (particularly those stored outside) be sure your dealer has enough to supply you and many, many more people like you. It's your assurance that you're getting what you pay for. See you at Lloyd's!

Advice for Veterans

KINGSTON Many veterans holding National Service Life Insurance may be eligible to apply for a total disability income provision on their policies, according to Donald Moore, state veteran counselor.

The provision, the counselor stated, provides that if the insured becomes totally disabled before his 65th birthday and meets other requirements, he will be entitled to income payments of ten dollars a month for each thousand dollars of NSLI in force.

Benefits begin on the first day of the seventh month following the start of the total disability and continue for the duration of such disability.

Payments made because of the disability income provision do not reduce the face value of the policy.

Veterans who desire detailed information and assistance in applying for the total disability income provision are urged to visit the local counseling center of the New York State Division of Veterans' Affairs located at 300 Flatbush Avenue, UPO Box 527, Kingston.

Documentary Evidence—

VA Benefits—Veterans, their dependents and survivors, are reminded that formal birth certificates are no longer necessary for the receipt of veteran's benefits. Less formal proof of marriage and birth have been acceptable since 1971. Formerly, the VA required documentary evidence but now a certified statement is acceptable provided no contradictory information is on file.

Here's A Reminder—for all veterans now studying under the GI Bill or planning to begin study this fall . . . eligibility for financial assistance under the GI Bill ceases ten years from the date of discharge, or by May 31, 1976, whichever is later.

Emmy Award-Winning Director 'At Home' Part Time in Woodstock

By Tobie Geertsema

For "Dinner with the President," a 1963 CBS-TV special, he helped President Kennedy achieve those natural and telling bits of stage business that highlighted his speech. For "Israel — It Is No Fable," another special, he coached Prime Minister Ben Gurion in the flow and rhythm of exploring his country's achievements and aspirations on camera. He has told Agnes De Mille and Morton Gould where to stand (for National Educational TV's "Music Theatre"), and instructed Christopher Plummer where to sit (in "The Lady's Not for Burning" on Omnibus).

For TV's "Theater in America" series, he has suggested stage movement left to right, right to left, front center to rear and vice versa to such luminaries as Lee Grant, Blythe Danner, Kevin McCarthy and Geraldine Fitzgerald. He has worked with Colleen Dewhurst, Franchot one, Cloris Leachman, Richard Kiley, Ruby Dee and Ossie Davis on delivering a line of dialogue with becoming simplicity. And, presently, he is keeping tabs on Dick Cavett and guests like Pearl Bailey and Julia Childs in the "Feeling Good" series, which he has totally revived.

His is of that breed actors never fully appreciate until awards presentation time rolls around, when he is automatically lionized as the man most responsible for drawing good performances from them. He is the director.

And, as a director, Woodstocker John Desmond is one of television's best — with a career that has spanned everything from soap opera to grand opera. long the way, he won an "Emmy" for his directorial work on the CBS series, "Camera Three." The award was a well-earned recognition by his peers for yeoman labors on 118 live shows, including opera with Eleanor Steiber and Baccaloni; dramas with Eric Portman and Mildred Dunnock; poetry with Maureen Stapleton, Ruby Dee and Ossie Davis; and a melange of music, art and dance programs.

Soft-spoken, mannerly to a fault, friendly and warm, John Desmond hardly seems a man used to ordering stars about. But whatever creative touch he brings to his duties has resulted in some of the finest high-level entertainment of top professional quality being seen today. He is an acknowledged expert in transferring "live" theatre to videotape.

Nationwide praise has followed his recent productions of Anton Chekov's "The Seagull," D.H. Lawrence's "The Widowing of Mrs. Holroyd," and Peter Nichols' "Forget-Me-Not-Lane" for the "Theater in America" series on Channel 13. In each instance, Desmond traveled to the live staging site of the play (Massachusetts' Williamstown Festival Theatre for "The Seagull," Connecticut's Long Wharf Theatre at New Haven for the other two).

His job was to change the plays from theatre format presentations by moving the action to settings better suited for the TV camera and its audience. His success in doing so is attributable to his preference for "on location" filming rather than in-studio production. Directing and videotaping out-of-doors and in authentic indoors environs gives his cameras more mobility; adds to the realism of the play.

Desmond, who has lived in Woodstock for several years and spends what little leisure time he has operating both Woodstock Antiques, Ltd. and the Desmond-Weiss Gallery there with co-partner Chuck Weiss, went directly into television after graduating from the University of Illinois as a theatre major. Beginning as a stage anager for CBS, he turned free lance director three years later; has since racked up an outstanding record for both commercial networks and the Public Broadcasting Service in an incredibly wide variety of programs.

On a par with his "Emmy" award is the fact that two of his shows for "Camera Three" are now at the Museum of Modern Art — one dealing with the cartoons of Saul Steinberg; the other a Black poetry program by Ruby Dee and Ossie Davis.

As much as he is pleased with the "Emmy" and Museum honors, Desmond's own personal, favorite programs were the "Omnibus" production of "The Lady's Not For Burning" with Christopher Plummer and Mary Ure — and the PBS dramatization of French novelist Colette's story, "My Mother's House," starring Colleen Dewhurst in the Playhouse New York series.

Obviously, then, his personal preference and forte is directing plays — but he has not always done so. Traveling around the world, he has directed biographical documentaries on the rescue of Da nish Jews by their countrymen; the problems of Israel; the worlds of Sean O'Casey, Charles Dickens, conservationist John Muir, and Hollywood's D.W. Griffith, as well as an appreciation of Eero Saarinen and a look back at Pearl Harbor.

In Minnesota, he has directed the modern opera, "The Crucible," has gone into the news field with a review of one year's important events; directed war chronicles and specials centering on music and dance, with emphasis on ballet. He has also eyed witchcraft in colonial Salem; directed for radio's "Voice of America;" and endeared himself to U.S. housewives in such highly popular and soap sudsy daytime serials as "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing" and "As the World Turns."

Home to John Desmond is usually behind the cameras somewhere far from Woodstock. But home in Woodstock is an elegant house of gleaming glass, heavy stone and soaring wooden beams, filled with antiques, surrounded by 56 acres, and proliferating with plants in a 43-foot glassed-in terrarium. And home in Woodstock is also the inventive creativity he helped bring to the Desmond Weiss Gallery, one of the most attractive art showplaces in the area, and to Woodstock Antiques, Ltd., a place of such priceless contents, it's been declared "off limits" to his two airdailes — who would rather roam those 56 acres than be dogs in a china shop anyhow.

Someday, Desmond will, perhaps, be "at home" in Woodstock permanently. But, today, at 52 — and at the peak of his profession — home and hearth will have to wait a bit longer. It's Dick Cavett calling and it's off to Boston for another lively filming session on "Feeling Good."

LIFE

Mary Fox, who portrays Alice, seems surprised by Linda Yochman, the Gryphon, in the production "Alice in Wonderland."

Becky Naney, the Queen and Jose Murphy, the Knave of Hearts, seem to be admiring the Royal Procession in "Alice in Wonderland."

(Van Allen photos)

Ulster Youth Theater To Present 'Alice in Wonderland'

The Ulster Youth Theater will perform the Lewis Carroll classic "Alice in Wonderland" Friday and Saturday, April 25 and 26, at the J. Watson Bailey Junior High School.

Two performances will be held each day at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Children will delight in the imaginary escapes of Alice as she meets such marvelous characters as White Rabbit who takes her on a journey of Wonderland to meet Tweedle Dum and Dee, on through the garden of talking flowers, then on to greet the grinning Cheshire Cat who introduces Alice to those famous party givers Mad Hatter and March Hare.

Bill Skilling has directed this production with Rosemary Hutton coordinating the entire vehicle. "Alice" promises to be a treat for all who go to the Bailey School either April 25 or 26.

MRS. CHARLES D. DeWITT
(Janis L. Torgerson)

(Lakeside Studio)

Janis L. Torgersen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Torgersen of Kingston, and Charles D. DeWitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. DeWitt of Tillson, were married April 12 at Redeemer Lutheran Church, Kingston.

The Rev. David Gaise, DD, pastor, officiated at the ceremony. Mrs. Marilyn Hoare, organist, provided wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a gown of white polyester satin with a fitted lace bodice, mandarin collar, bishop sleeves trimmed with pearls. The flared, lace-edged, -line skirt terminated in a cathedral length train. Her crystal and pearl tiara secured a shirred lace-edged, cathedral length veil. The gown and veil were made by the bridegroom's mother. The bride carried a cascade of roses, gardenias and baby's breath with a removable corsage of roses.

Miss Jeannine Bennett of Franklin Square was maid of honor in a floor length, green floral printed gown styled with a high neckline and a matching jacket trimmed with lace. She wore a green picture hat and carried a cascade of yellow carnations and white daisies.

Bridesmaids were Miss Vanessa Osterhoudt and Miss Cheryl Paulding of Kingston. Their gowns were similar in styling to the honor attendant's except in blue and yellow. They wore picture hats and carried bouquets of daisies.

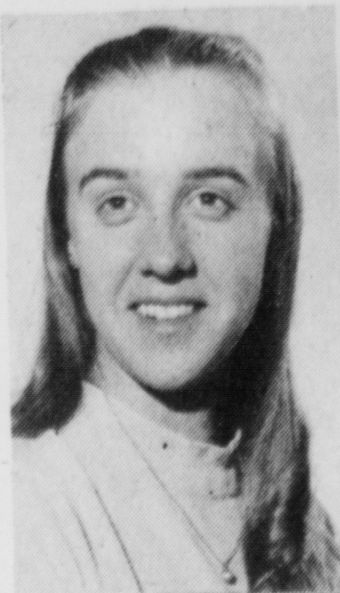

Richard Sperle was best man. Ushers were Wade Torgersen and Ralph Torgersen, both of Kingston.

A reception was given at the Capri, Port Ewen.

The bride, a 1970 graduate of Saugerties High School, was graduated in 1972 from UCCC, and is employed as a programmer at Rotron, Inc.

Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School, served seven years in the U.S. Navy, and is employed as a service representative at Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company.

The couple will reside in Tillson.

Musical Fantasy for Children of All Ages

The Magic Stone, an original musical fantasy for children of all ages, will be presented by the Woman's Club of Saugerties in collaboration with the Joan Gordon Theater Company of Woodstock Sunday, Apr. 27 at 2 p.m. in the Saugerties High School auditorium. The production, written and directed by Michael Cruickshank, concerns the misadventures of Master Jacob, a poor woodcutter, as he sets out on the high road in search of Mother Hildegard's magic stone. Unbeknownst to Master Jacob is that Mother Hildegard is really a witch, and that's where the fun starts. Through a series of strange events, Master Jacob learns a very important lesson — that nonsense is a "very important commodity... it is the stuff that dreams are made from."

Michael Cruickshank is a newcomer to the Woodstock musical theatrical scene, having spent several years in college theater and summer stock as an actor and director. He has written numerous plays which have been produced at upstate colleges and has toured various folk clubs across the country as a singer-guitarist.

No admission will be charged for The Magic Stone since the Woman's Club is providing the children's theater production as a service to the community. Tickets may be obtained by adults at the Paramount Pharmacy, Saugerties Pharmacy, Joseph's Beauty Shop, Blue Mountain Market and at the door. Mrs. Robert Finger Jr., chairperson, is in charge of the arrangements for the Woman's Club.

Al Howe to Be Guest Caller At Lefooters Square Dance

Al Howe of Hilton will be guest caller at the Friday dance of Lefooters Western Square Dance Club. The dance is set for 8 p.m. at Hurley Reformed Church hall, off Route 209. Prior to the dance, Olin and Eleanor MacSorley will conduct a round-of-the-month workshop at 7:30 o'clock. Those having a basic round dance knowledge are invited to the workshop sessions.

Howe, formerly of Highland, worked for a number of years for the Poughkeepsie Journal, before taking a position with the Rochester Newspapers. He and his wife are the parents of six children.

A caller for the past five years, Howe works with the Singing Squares of Rochester, Boots and Slippers in Hilton, and is a weekly caller throughout the summer at Skybrook Campgrounds in Danesville. Active with the youth, he worked with a 4-H Club, presenting Square Dancing on Horseback, for which the youngsters received first place award in special events two consecutive years at the New York State Fair in Syracuse.

All Club-level dancers are invited.

Alarm Clock Routine Ticks Her Off

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a wonderful professor. I also work, about three times a week he arises early to work on a special project or to attend an early faculty meeting, so he sets the alarm for 30 minutes earlier than he really has to get up. When the alarm goes off, it awakens both of us. He then sets it for 30 minutes later, rolls over and dozes until the alarm goes off again.

Meanwhile, I am being robbed of 30 minutes of sleep. I think he should be a big enough boy to set the alarm once for the time he has to get up.

Is there a solution? Please don't suggest separate bedrooms because I'd rather lose sleep than lose HIM.

Sign this, "For whom the bell does NOT toll" or "TICKED OFF"

DEAR TICKED: Have you asked him to please knock off the two-alarm routine? If not, do. If he refuses, insist on a compromise whereby he sets the alarm twice every other time.

DEAR ABBY: That letter about the wife who didn't like her husband's mustache brought back memories.

Years ago, I had the same problem. I waited patiently for my husband to shave off a big walrus mustache he had grown "just to see how it looked."

Finally, one day when he was asleep on the couch, I got a scissors and nipped off one side of it! He awakened with a start, and said, "What's coming off here?"

I sweetly said, "Your mustache, dear."

He laughed and kissed me.

and he never grew another mustache again.

AN 85-YEAR-OLD WIDOW

DEAR WIDOW: You're lucky your husband was so good-natured. I'll bet some wives have ended up in the divorce court for less.

DEAR ABBY: Your advice about telling later-comers to come an hour ahead of the time you really want them will not work. I used to be anywhere from 30 minutes to an hour late every time, and no amount of kidding or criticism would change me.

One Christmas Eve some close friends (I'll call them the "Greens") invited me to drive with them to their parents' lovely country home. I was to be at the Greens' at 6 p.m. "Please, this time, don't be late," they pleaded. "It's a long drive, and we want to leave at 6 p.m. sharp!"

Of course I was late, but as I walked up their front stairs, I looked at my watch and saw it was only 6:15 — which was "early" for me. But the house was dark and there was a note on their front door: "Sorry, Pal. We waited for you until 6:05."

I was furious. But I will say that I am grateful to the Greens for teaching me a lesson I will never forget.

That was the last time I was ever late.

As a result of recent elections, two new Board members have been added to the Board of Directors of the Children's Home, 26 Grove Street, Kingston. Mrs. Abraham Streifer and Mrs. Jack Gill will join the Board which sets policy for the Kingston based child care agency.

Mrs. Streifer is a native of Poughkeepsie, but has lived in Old Hurley for many years. She is a member of the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary and the Wiltwyck Golf Club. In addition to being a member of Temple Emanuel, Mrs. Streifer has worked for the Temple's Sisterhood, B'nai Brith and Hadassah. Having the opportunity to travel extensively has stimulated Mrs. Streifer's interest in the study of Spanish and anthropology, courses which she is currently taking at Ulster Community College. Mrs. Streifer is married to attorney Abraham Streifer and is the mother of two children, a son who is completing his degree at University of California and a daughter who is also an attorney.

Mrs. Gill, a native Kingstonian, received her early education in the Kingston school system before going to Cornell University where she graduated as a home economist. Mrs. Gill worked as a home economist with Central Hudson Gas and Electric for three years. She was on the Board of Managers at the Home for the Aged, is the former Women's Committee Chairman of the Ulster County Farm Bureau, and former member of American Association of University Women and the Junior League of Kingston. At the present time, Mrs. Gill is a member of the Hurley Reformed Church and on the Board of Directors for the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary and the Hurley Library. She works with Community Concerts and is the leader of a 4H cooking group. Mrs. Gill is married to Jack Gill, one of the county's leading growers of sweet corn, and is the mother of four children: John (age 19), Cynthia (age 17), David (age 12), and Karen (age 19).

"Both Mrs. Streifer and Mrs. Gill bring to the Board a wealth of experience in community activities and an awareness of the needs of children. We are pleased to welcome them to the Board," commented Mrs. Arthur W. Hazenbush, outgoing president of the Board of Directors.

Fashions will be provided by many area merchants. Shirley Kunst of Kate Brodsky's Dress Shop will coordinate the program.

The luncheon will also feature a series of donor awards under the direction of Ruth Friedman and Jerry Wenig, among the items to be awarded are a handmade afghan made by Ruth Skrifoff of Monroe; a cassette player-recorder, contributed by Channel Master, Inc.; a Waring electric can opener, a gift of Rose & Douglas; and a magazine rack, presented by D & M Furniture.

The luncheon is traditionally held during Hospital Week which this year runs from May 11 to May 17. "People have always considered this affair the loveliest occasion on the spring social calendar," notes Auxiliary President Evelyn Greenberg. "Our talented women are working to make this year's event extra special. We're looking forward to a large turnout of Auxiliaries and area residents."

Table Was Set for Boston Delivery Boys

BOSTON (UPI) — When the table-setters set the table and the delivery boys deliver the goods, not even a determined "Catfish" is likely to spoil the party.

And so it was Wednesday that the top of Boston's batting order reached base eight times and the middle of the order knocked in six runs, including four by rookie center-fielder Fred Lynn.

It should follow and does that the Red Sox rallied for eight late runs to salvage the final game of a three game series against the New York Yankees 11-7.

Jim "Catfish" Hunter, New York's multi-million dollar off-season acquisition, was on the mound searching for his first win for his new club and, according to the Red Sox, from Manager Darrell Johnson on down, Hunter had good stuff, better than a week ago when he lost to Boston.

But a pinch-hit triple by Cecil Cooper to start the seventh and a single by Bernie Carbo got Hunter out of the game leading 7-4. Sparky Lyle, the eventual loser, walked Dwight Evans and, after striking out Carl Yastrzemski, gave up singles to Lynn and Jim Rice, cutting the lead to 7-6.

Exit Lyle, enter Dick Tidrow. Bob Montgomery greeted him with an opposite field double, scoring Lynn and Rice, to give Boston an 8-7 lead. Lynn's bases loaded, three-run double in the eighth sealed the decision, giving Roger Moret his first win.

Lynn, batting cleanup, was 2-for-3 to raise his average to

.429 and capped the day with a perfect throw to cut down a runner at third early in the game. Rice also had two hits and two RBIs.

Hunter, who is 0-3, thought he "made some good pitches but these guys have some good hitters. That Evans is a smart hitter. He always takes good swings. And if he takes a bad swing, you can be sure he won't take another one during that at bat."

The Yankee offense was keyed by Roy White, who homered twice, once from each side of the plate, along with a single and a walk to raise his average to .471, and Sandy Alomar who was 2-for-3 with two runs scored and two RBIs.

Nothing personal, of course, but the Oakland A's can argue that they are better off without Jim Hunter than they would be if they still had the man with the $3 million arm.

The figures tell the story: Without their 25-game winner of 1974, the A's have won 10 of their first 15 games and are in a virtual tie for first place in the American League's Western Division race. A year ago after 15 games, they had an 8-7 record including a 3-0 mark by Hunter.

Vida Blue, taking over as the ace of the Oakland staff in Hunter's absence, went 6 2-3 in his first four games, as the A's beat the Kansas City Royals 3-2 for their fifth win in their last six games.

Rollie Fingers, Paul

Lindblad and Jim Todd finished up for Blue with Todd receiving credit for the save.

California defeated Texas 4-1, Cleveland beat Detroit 4-3 and Milwaukee topped Baltimore 8-5 in other American League games.

Billy Williams singled home the A's first run in the first inning and they added single runs in the sixth and seventh to hand Steve Busby his first defeat. Hal McRae drove in both Royal runs in the fifth with a double after a double by Jim Wohlford and a walk to John Mayberry.

Angels 4, Rangers 1
Bill Singer allowed a first-inning homer by Mike Hargrove but pitched a six-hitter for California. Tommy Harper had three singles and Tom Egan added a double and a single as Singer fanned five and didn't walk a batter in winning his second game. Clyde Wright was the loser for Texas.

Indians 4, Tigers 3
Jack Brohamer and George Hendrick each drove in two runs for Cleveland as Jim Perry won his first game and Joe Coleman suffered his third straight defeat for Detroit. Gary Sutherland and Bill Freehan also homered for the Tigers.

Brewers 8, Orioles 5
Bobby Mitchell, replacing Hank Aaron as Milwaukee's designated hitter, hit two doubles and scored the winning run in the Brewers' victory over Baltimore. Ed Rodriguez received credit for the win while Bob Reynolds was the loser.

Bulls Won Battle of Guards

By United Press International

"When you write the history of this series," said Chicago Coach Dick Motta, "you'll write that our guards shut out their guards."

"Chet Walker and Bob Love are the best set of forwards that's ever played in the NBA in many people's minds," said Kansas City-Omaha Kings coach Phil Johnson. "They are the best I've seen, but I haven't been around that long."

Whatever the reasons, and it seems each of the coaches has a different explanation, the Chicago Bulls clinched an NBA Western Conference finals berth by whipping the Kings 101-89 Wednesday night, ending that best-of-seven series in six games.

Motta was pointing out the defensive job Norm Van Lier and Jerry Sloan did on Nate Archibald and Jimmy Walker in the series and in the final game as the key to Chicago's victory. In Wednesday's game, Archibald had 26 points but managed only 7-of-21 shots. Walker scored only 10 points on 3-of-12.

Johnson gave Love and Walker most of the credit, though they scored 26 and 13 points, respectively. Both kept the Kings away from the board, thereby helping to stop their running game. Playing at Chicago's tempo, the Bulls methodically wore down the Kings.

The Bulls' defense was the biggest factor, however. The Kings were held only a 35.3 per cent shooting percentage. Chicago hit 45.6 per cent.

Chicago effectively ended the Kings' hopes with a 15-6 spurt in the first 6:31 of the third quarter, turning a 50-44 half-time margin into a 65-50 lead.

The game reached an explosive point with 8:40 left when Nate Thurmond and Sam Lacey engaged in a brief shoving match and Van Lier led several players into the stands behind the Chicago basket. Apparently no blows were struck in the stands, however. Police quickly jumped between the fans and the Bulls.

"There were a lot of close relatives in this and it created a tension series," Motta said, referring to the several players who have played for both teams and Johnson, a former Bulls' assistant. "The tension will be less felt in the next series."

Chicago now goes against the Golden State-Seattle series winner in the semifinals.

In the only other action Wednesday night, Bob McAdoo's 37 points—nine in the last five minutes—helped the Buffalo Braves defeat the Washington Bullets 102-96 and tie their series at three games apiece. The Bullets will host Buffalo in the deciding game Friday night.

A First for Gilles

Islanders Remember 1942

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI)—Pittsburgh forward Bob Kelly has likened the New York Islanders to a disease. The Islanders hope it's a fatal one.

"They're like a disease," Kelly said Tuesday night before the Islanders won their second game in their best-of-seven quarterfinal series with the Penguins after dropping the first three decisions. "They never stop coming. They're just so persistent. We can't ever ease up."

Kelly proved prophetic in the fifth game but hopes that's as far as his analysis extends. The Islanders host the Penguins tonight in the Nassau Coliseum in game six and, if they're on top at the end of this game and win an if-necessary seventh game Saturday night in Pittsburgh, would tie a 33-year-old record the Penguins want no part of.

In 1942 the Toronto Maple Leafs allowed Detroit to grab a 3-0 lead in the Stanley Cup finals—then blew the Red Wings out in the next four games to win the league title. No team before or since has matched the feat of losing the first three games in a playoff and then winning the final four—but the Islanders are giving it their best shot.

The third-year Islanders, though, fully believe that come Saturday night they will share the distinction with that old Toronto team.

"I'm sure we can do it now," said Glenn Resch, the plucky, young goaltender who has been in the New York nets for the last two games. "Remember 1942. Remember the Maple Leafs."

Giving the Islanders added confidence is the fact that their 4-2 victory Tuesday night marked their first success ever in Pittsburgh's Civic Arena following a string of seven losses and three ties in three years.

They point out that they were just as unsuccessful in Madison Square Garden before breaking the jinx late in the regular season—and then they beat the Rangers in that building twice during the preliminary round playoffs.

Another key, the Islanders feel, was their last goal Tuesday.

Howell: No Offers Yet

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Harry Howell, player-coach for the San Diego Mariners of the World Hockey Association, said Wednesday he had discussed a coaching job with the New York Rangers of the NHL but was not offered it.

"I did talk with Emile Francis (of the Rangers) in Toronto last week," he said after returning from his team's WHA West quarterfinals series victory there.

"Emile was scouting the game," said Howell, a longtime Rangers player. "We are old friends, and we talked. I was not offered the job, and I did not solicit it."

However, in response to reports about an offer, he said: "Emile asked me if I would be interested in coaching after my playing days are over, and I told him I would be. Reports that it's been decided are premature because nothing concrete was ever discussed."

Howell played as a defenseman for the Rangers for 17 years and played in more games than any other Ranger in the team's history, from 1952 to 1969.

Onteora and New Paltz: UCAL Baseball's Only Unbeaten

KINGSTON Most of the baseball teams in the Ulster County Athletic League have played only two games so far, yet at this early stage of the season only two teams are unbeaten, Onteora and New Paltz.

Onteora High, a young squad with big bats, brought the high flying Ganders of Rondout back to earth Wednesday with a 6-2 victory to assume the lead in Division II. New Paltz meanwhile posted its second straight, a 6-3 win over Pine Bush, to take control in Division III.

In other games, Highland whipped Marlboro, 7-2; Coleman bombed Fallsburgh, 11-3; Red Hook belted Ellenville, 12-2; and Walkkill outslugged Liberty, 13-8.

Rondout, holding a two-run lead in the fourth inning, blew its attempt to catch OCS' Al Johnson stealing second. Johnson and teammate Anthony Turk scored on the play to tie things up.

"I think that kind of broke their backs," said winning coach Joe DiGiovanni. And if that didn't Bob Nussbaum's triple with the bases loaded in the fifth did.

Johnson worked three innings in relief of Mike Scanlan and picked up the decision over RVC's Jay Schaeffer. Todd Buswell, who had three of the five Gander hits, scored both runs for Rondout.

Another fine pitching performance, this one by Roger Plantier, gave New Paltz its second straight win. Plantier struck out 12 without a walk in completing a four-hitter.

Tom Roach supplied the necessary support as he singled home Tim Savago in the second to start a three-run rally and scored the third run himself on Mike Beck's sacrifice. Roach doubled off loser Bob Bolebruch in the third to chase Pete Ferrante home with the winner.

Three of Highland's ten hits were doubles, and they all came in the decisive fourth inning off Marlboro's Randy Baglieri.

Dave Mackey had the first two-bagger, moving Mark Valentino over to third. Randy Kite and Carl Kilpatrick then connected back-t-back to send three runs across the plate.

Gary Scheuer had all he needed to wrap up a five-hitter. He evened both teams off at 1-1 on the season with nine strikeouts against one walk.

Chris Bentley shackled Fallsburgh on three hits and made his own job easier by slamming a two-run single in the first inning. The Statesmen never trailed, battered Fallsburgh starter Al Smith and took advantage of numerous Comet errors. Bill Berardi had a triple for the winners.

Red Hook unleashed a 14-hit assault on a couple of Ellie hurlers. Joe Skelly did the most damage with three triples and two RBIs on the day, and he also pitched the game, notching a four-hitter for the Raiders.

Tom Berryann pounded two-run homer in the first inning to get Walkkill off to a fast start. The Panthers scored five runs in that frame to take the lead for keeps, but Liberty fought back to trail only 8-6 entering the seventh. Five more Panther scores, all earned, put the contest out of reach.

Dave Sostak absorbed the entire beating for the Indians. He gave up 13 hits including a pair of 360 foot homers by Bob Lee. Reliever Harry Collier got the win.

NCAA Will Allow Athletes' China Trip

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — College athletes can be members of the U.S. track and field team and compete in China next month without fear of reprisal from the NCAA.

The NCAA Council met with Amateur Athletic Union executives Wednesday and granted collegians permission to participate in the China trip.

Dr. John Fuzak, NCAA president, said collegians can participate without threat of reprisal from the NCAA but that "athletes should be aware of existing problems before making such a decision."

Those problems apparently include the possible missing of final examinations and conference or institutional rules prohibiting the athlete from making such a trip.

Fuzak said, "In cases, conference rules are more restrictive than NCAA rules."

The China trip, which will include three meets, is planned to span May 11-30.

In Kansas City for the meeting with NCAA officials were AAU President Joseph Scalzo, Executive Secretary Ollan Cassell and Rich Harkins.

Fuzak said the NCAA has no idea how many collegians will be on the U.S. team which was selected exclusively by the AAU.

"We couldn't get any definite or specific answer on how many athletes are involved," Fuzak said.

A prepared NCAA statement said the NCAA waived its by-law which prohibits an athlete from outside competition until his college season is finished. It has been waived in the past to allow participation on national teams.

The NCAA added that the China trip does involve a U.S. national team as a part of a committed cultural exchange program of two nations.

Nicklaus, Miller Co-Favorites in T of C

CARLSBAD, Calif. (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus, on a three-tournament winning streak following his win in the Masters, has been picked as a co-favorite with Johnny Miller to win the $40,000 first prize money of the 23rd annual Tournament of Champions which began today.

The event is open only to winners of major tournaments since the last T of C.

Nicklaus, who is the only man to win five Masters, is also looking for his fifth triumph here over the 6,855-yard La Costa Country Club layout.

Before Nicklaus can count that fifth win, however, he has to beat Miller, the defending champion.

But it may be a replay for Nicklaus. He won his fifth green coat at Augusta, Ga., in a dramatic one-shot victory over Miller and Tom Weiskopf. Nicklaus and Miller have been installed as 5-1 choices in this prestigious event while Weiskopf has been listed 6-1.

In the money-on category, Miller is out on top with $148,476, but Nicklaus is only $234 back.

Weiskopf, who captured the Greater Greensboro Open one week before his fourth runner-up finish in the Masters, is third in money won with $112,488.

PGA champion Lee Trevino, who finished last in the 1974 T of C, and Gene Littler, a three-time winner of the tournament from 1955-'57, were made 8-1 choices.

Eleven pros will be making T of C debuts, including Jerry McGee, winner of last week-end's Pensacola Open for his first triumph in eight years on the pro tour.

Miller won here a year ago for a $40,000 payoff with a 280 total, eight-under-par, after shooting a 75 in the first round. He had a final round 69 and finished one shot ahead of Buddy Allin and John Mahafey.

Tommy Jacobs, a former tour regular who now is La Costa's golf director, last year predicted that no player would break 280, eight-under-par, a mark Miller matched in taking the win.

This year, Jacobs said, "Anyone who shoots 282 will win. But the course will play much longer because the fairways are so lush."

"The course is in the best condition it's ever been, and the greens will be smooth and very, very fast."

Jacobs, who has played in this event four times, said the pivotal holes on the course are the first five and last four.

"If you score these in even par or one under, you could have a possible 67 or 68 going for you."

"The last mile, our last four holes so called because they measure...5,282 feet, are as a group, the toughest finishing holes in the country. Into the prevailing wind, sometimes it feels like the last 10 miles."

Kingston Ruins Esser's Show; Roosevelt Nips Sawyers, 1-0

KINGSTON Several major league scouts showed up at Dietz Stadium to watch Ketcham High's Mark Esser throw his stuff at Kingston Wednesday afternoon. Esser may have to wait awhile before a bonus check shows up in the mail.

The Maroons took advantage of eight walks by the Indian star, rapped out seven hits and grabbed a 6-2 victory to remain in first place in the DCSL baseball race.

Elsewhere in the league, Saugerties lost a 1-0 heartbreaker to Roosevelt; Poughkeepsie stunned Arlington, 14-6; Lourdes walloped John Jay 15-5; and Spackenkill clipped Beacon, 6-2.

"I think those scouts may have had something to do with Esser's performance," said KHS coach Ron Cole. The walks certainly had something to do with Kingston's win.

Steve Hughes took a base on balls in the second and eventually scored on an error to tie the game. Esser later walked Paul Runge and Joe Primo in the fourth, and after Val Galm dropped a bunt to load the bases, he passed Duane Carey to force in a run.

That was all for Esser, and Kingston went on to score two more runs in that inning and another in the sixth on Cliff Lyons' RBI double. Ed Devine worked the final three for Ketcham.

Gary Amato spaced six hits over six and a third innings to get the decision. Mark Chapman fanned the last two batters in a brief but efficient relief appearance.

No score in the bottom of the sixth, bases loaded, two outs. Tom Crane fires a 3-2 pitch, and it's a grounder down to third. That should be all for the Presidents... oh no! He boots it... a run scores!

And just like that Crane's shutout and Saugerties' piece of first place went down the drain. Steve Snyder threw the blanks as the frustrated Sawyers beat the air and stranded nine men on base. "We just didn't hit," said Sawyer coach Tony Vizzie.

Ketcham High's junior varsity baseball team struck for five runs in the sixth inning to overcome an 8-4 Kingston lead and pin the Little Maroons with a 9-8 defeat here Wednesday.

Bob Whiffen, who worked in relief of Jim Murphy, was the victim as Kingston record slipped to 3-2. Ron Kahlstorf had two hits and three RBI's. Bob Schlanger cracked a pair

Outrigger Trounces Acker's

KINGSTON Trailing 54-49 at the half, The Outrigger rallied behind the sharpshooting of Rod Chando to trounce Acker's Bar 110-97 in the YMCA "A" Basketball League. In other games, Smitty's downed Boiceville Inn 110-88 and DeMicco Motors rode over Edgar's 94-75.

Chando wound up with 37 points, 19 in the second half. John Funk added 25 and Duane Carey 23. Jerry Hawkins paced Acker's with 34 points and sparked their first half drive with 20 points. Jim Alba, one of the league's best all round players, contributed 27 points and 27 rebounds. Rich Cicio, who played only three quarters, racked up 33 points for Smitty's, dividing his points with 18 in the first half and 18 in the second. Fren Prendergast had 23 and Steve Mihic 20. Vic Gold (28) and John Stelcin (27) topped Boiceville. The sea-saw first half was tied 11 times, including a 43-43 stalemate at the end of the half.

DeMicco's put together 28-point first and fourth quarters to prevail over Edgar's. Ed Priest paced the Motormen with 29 points and John Tucker furnished 23.

Ted Wood of Edgar's took game honors with 30 points, with Bill Brady (15) and Don Komosa (14) sharing 29. In "B" League action, Wenzel's museum won over Uhl's Construction, 68-56. Top scorers were Skip Lyons with 18 for Wenzel's and Jim Williams and George Barnes with 18 apiece for Uhl's.

Admirals Top SHS on Links

SAUGERTIES Arlington High showed just a shade more depth than Saugerties Wednesday, and that enabled the Admirals to tour the Sawyerkill CC course in four fewer strokes to take a DCSL golf match, 172176.

Steve Van Tassel fired a 41 to match Arlington's Jeff Buley, and Chris Luley matched Arlington's Sal Calta at 43, but that's where the parity stopped.

Mike Cornish at 43 and Jim Osborne at 45 provided the difference as the Sawyer pair of Brian Holley and Warren Yetter returned 45 and 47 respectively. The loss was Saugerties' first in league play after an opening win and dropped the SHS overall record to 1-2.

The Sawyers will visit Kingston today.

Third Win for Ganders

ACCORD Rondout Valley High hosted Pine Bush in an Ulster County Athletic League golf match here Wednesday, and the 180-186 final score gave the Ganders their second win in three starts.

Bill Collins had 41, Mike Meehan had 45, Randy Sagar had 46 and Bill Bruch had 48 for the winning total. It was enough to hold off a surprising strong Bushman challenge led by Chris Bement's 44. Also for Pine Bush, Pete Malo carded 45, Tom Collins had 47 and Jim Falco shot 50. In another match it was El-

Maroons Annex Third Tennis Win of Season

SAUGERTIES Kingston High rolled to its third straight DCSL tennis victory Wednesday, defeating host Saugerties, 5-0.

Dan Ingalsbe stopped Ken Del Rosario, 10-1, Kevin Boyd whipped Andy Stoll, 10-6, and Brian Decker toppd Daryl Jones, 10-8 for the sweep in singles.

The Maroons continued to dominate in the doubles matches as Garth Galyon and Jim Contino posted a 10-1 win over Bob Carpenter and Bob Vogel, and Rick Smith and Joe Argulewicz took a 10-6 set from Frank Blundell and Chuck Rosenberger.

The exhibition battles also went Kingston's way. Dan Gustafson, with a 7-0 win over Peter Cline, was a singles winner, and in doubles, Joe Janasiewicz and Matt Klein won 10-4 over Jim Thompson and Pat Sheehan, and Jim Carroll and Jeff Van De Mark won 7-1 over Vince Lucente and Tim Sheehan.

KHS improved to 3-0-1 overall while Saugerties, 1-1 in league play, dropped to 2-5.

Alexander Clinches WCT Spot

HOUSTON (UPI) — The eight spots in the $100,000 World Championship Tennis finals are almost filled and the man sweating it the most is one-time WCT champ Stan Smith.

John Alexander became the latest player to clinch a spot in the finals, capturing his second round match in the River Oaks Classic Wednesday and wrapping up first place in the WCT's Red Group — an achievement worth an extra $12,000.

But Mark Cox, who came into the final Red Group tournament of the season, was bumped off in his second round match and Dick Stockton — playing with the pain of a back injury — lost to Japan's Jan Kamiwazumi in the first round.

Smith had exited from the Red Group tournament in the first round as well.

Going into today's play, therefore, Arthur Ashe and Bjorn Borg of the Green Group, Rod Laver and Roscoe Tanner from the Blue Group and John Alexander from the Reds had wrapped up a spot in the finals.

The top two players from each group plus the next two leading qualifiers make the tournament.

The final three spots will be decided among Cox, Smith, Raul Ramirez (from the Blue Group), Harold Solomon (Red) and Bob Lutz (Red).

Even though Cox was knocked out of the Houston tournament, his 510 points will still probably be enough to get him in. That leaves Smith, Solomon and Ramirez battling for the other two places with Lutz having to win the River Oaks event to have any chance of making it to Dallas.

If Solomon and Ramirez win one more match each they will have combined to knock Smith out of the tournament he won two years ago.

The critical matches Wednesday were Cox's loss to Eddie Dibbs, 7-6, 0-6, 6-2, and Stockton's fall to Kamiwazumi.

"I'm sorry," said Dibbs to Cox after he beat the Britisher and threw his plans for Dallas into doubt. "What have you got to be sorry for?" asked Cox.

Stockton seemed to have a Dallas berth wrapped up until he aggravated a back injury last week in Tokyo. He spent last weekend in traction in a Dallas hospital and could not produce enough winning shots.

"I just had no movement and no timing," said the disappointed Stockton. "Kamiwazumi played well, but he knew he didn't have to do anything special."

Ulster Blanks OCC In Net Opener

MIDDLETOWN Women's Intercollegiate Tennis (WIT) of Ulster County Community College got off to a promising start Wednesday by defeating a host squad from Orange CCC, 6-0.

Coach B. Edson Decker took a team of Janet Dunn, Sharon Kuriger, Maureen Madden and Debbie Beilman to the Colts' courts and never had to worry about the outcome.

Dunn stopped Nancy Hoaglund, 6-2, 6-2; Kuriger, in the closest match of the day, beat Mary Thomas, 7-5, 6-3; Madden topped Meredith Beckles, 6-2, 6-2; and Beilman downed Denise Distel, 6-0, 6-3.

Ulster padded its lead in doubles. Dunn and Kuriger paired to take a 6-1, 7-5 match from Terri Esnes and Gayle Hook, and Madden and Beilman swept a 6-0, 6-0 match from Judy Allen and Joan Degenhardt.

WIT make its debut on the Stone Ridge campus on Monday against Sullivan CC.

A Hit . . . At 10,000 to 1

They say firing an arrow that penetrates the shaft of another already on the target is a 10,000-to-1 shot, but members of the Kingston Archery Club have done it two years in a row now that Joe Amato has turned the trick. Amato, using a compound bow with aluminum arrows, made his pinpoint shot at the Ethan Allen Lanes in Port Ewen. The club's Demonstration Team, meanwhile, will put on an exhibition of trick shooting at the Lions Club show May 3 and also will be in the spotlight at the Ulster County Sportsmen's Show. Master Derby Ready

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — Robert E. Lehmann had a two fold dream—owning and breeding a Kentucky Derby winner.

Lehmann, who owned Golden Chance Farm near Paris, Ky., realized the first part of that dream in 1970, when Dust Commander surprised the racing world with victories in the Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland and the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs.

But Lehmann died in 1972 before the second part of the dream had a chance for completion. Today, Master Derby, an off-spring of Dust Commander, could take a big step toward completing the dream as he takes on a field of eight in the 51st Blue Grass Stakes.

Master Derby, owned by Lehmann's widow, will share top weight of 123 pounds with two other prime Derby contenders—Prince Thou Art and Avatar—in today's running of the $50,000-added Blue Grass. The 1 1/8 mile event, just nine days before the Derby, has become a prime test for the "Run for the Roses"—with Master Derby's pop one of eight Derby winners in the past 13 years to finish first or second in the Keeneland prep.

Also entered in today's race are Prince Thou Art's Derby Dan stablemate Sylvan Place, Harvard Man, Wicked Park, Honey Mark, Decipher and Ruggles Ferry.

Master Derby has progressed more quickly than his father, whose surprise win in the Blue Grass forced Lehmann to cut short a Tiger hunting expedition in India and rush home just in time to see his horse triumph in the Derby.

The chestnut colt has won four straight races, including the Louisiana Derby and a 1 1/16 mile prep at Keeneland last week, and now totals $233,226 in earnings.

Prince Thou Art, Sylvan Place and Avatar also bring good credentials into the Bluegrass. The Derby Dan duo combined to finish one-two in 'Case Closed'

SAUGERTIES
The case involving a January burglary on Esopus Creek Road has been "closed," according to Saugerties Town Police, with the arrest Wednesday of a 17-year-old New York City youth.

Edward Lubonski of 24 E. 70th Street, Manhattan, was arrested Wednesday by the New York City Police Department and turned over to local authorities. The youth is charged with third degree conspiracy involving the January burglary at the home of LeRoy W. Snyder.

Two others are currently under indictment for charges stemming from the burglary. Robert Solo, 17, and Zlatko Mujadzio, 19, both of Ridge-wood, have been indicted for third degree burglary, second degree grand larceny and criminal possession of stolen property. They are in the Ulster County Jail awaiting trial.

Lubonski was arraigned Wednesday in Saugerties Justice Court and was committed to the Ulster County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bail pending a later court appearance.

Between $2,000 and $3,000 in property was allegedly taken in the January burglary at the Snyder residence. Saugerties police said today that most of the property has been recovered.

Car Sales Still Down, Imperiling Worker Recalls

keeping us up with the normal tempo," one industry analyst said. "But we'll just have to sweat it out for one more period to see what happens before we write off spring."

Deliveries in the April 11-20 period totaled 146,688 cars, compared with 202,340 in the year-ago period. On a daily rate basis, sales were off 18.4 percent from last year's energy crisis-depressed levels and 42 percent below the record mid-April level of 1973.

Sales dropoffs ranged from a drop of 7 percent at American Motors, its best year-to-year comparison since last August when it topped the year-ago levels, to 41 percent at Chrysler. General Motors was down 8 percent and the Ford Motor Co. was down 24 percent.

The continuing sluggish sales could slow plans by the four automakers to recall laid-off workers. There are still 192,000 workers on long-term layoffs in the industry, 128,000 of them at GM which hopes to recall at least 30,000 by the start of the 1975-model run in August.

There is some optimism, however, among several industry executives that the spring upturn is still just around that elusive corner.

"With the forthcoming tax rebates and the resultant sales stimulation, lower interest rates, a moderating rate of inflation, strengthened consumer confidence and the seasonal upturn in sales normally experienced in the May-June period, the near-term outlook looks promising," said Mack W. Worden, GM's vice president for sales.

Walter Fears a Myth Says Dow Official

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Dow Chemical Co. official says fears about the discovery of cancer producing substances in city water supplies are based more on myth than reality.

Warning against efforts to set standards to limit cancer-causing agents in water before more is known, C.L. Sercu says only tiny amounts of such chemicals have been found. And, he says, those chemicals have been shown to cause cancer only in tests using animals.

"This (concern) is more myth than dilemma," he told the National Conference on Water.

Sercu's remarks, which he said represented a wide range of views from industry rather than just his own or those of Dow Chemical, touched off a sharp reaction Wednesday at the government sponsored conference.

Robert Harris of the Environmental Defense Fund said Sercu was spreading a myth of his own. He said water does not naturally contain the carcinogens causing concern, but that waste discharges from industries such as Dow and from cities are putting them there.

Some of those substances, Harris said, have been shown to cause cancer in concentrations as low as 400 parts in a trillion, so even very small amounts in water supplies are "anything but safe."

The opposing concerns voiced by Sercu and Harris pointed out clearly some of the conflicts involved in attempts to establish a comprehensive national water policy.

The conference, sponsored by the cabinet-level U.S. Water Resources Council, was the first such meeting in 15 years to consider the nationwide relationship between water and energy, food production, environment standards.

Defaults Show Student Loan Overhaul Needed

NEW YORK (UPI)—The $8.02 billion national student loan program needs to be overhauled drastically to curb runaway defaults, according to the Consumer Bankers Association, Washington.

The association has presented its views to the House subcommittee on post-secondary education headed by Rep. Jim O'Hara, (D-Ill.).

The Consumer Bankers want many changes in the program, Drew Tidwell, their legislative representative, told United Press International. Most important, he said:

heard that many loans to vocational and proprietary students were reckless or outright frauds on the part of the students and the schools.

Chase Manhattan Bank in New York, which has a big student loan program, said it had filed claims to collect from the New York State Higher Educational Assistance Corp. on 15.5 percent of its portfolio of student loans in 1974. Of these, 2.4 percent now are being paid off and 4.7 percent are in negotiation. But 8.4 percent of the borrowers have "averted", that is they have not come to the bank and renewed their notes as they are required to do within five months of finishing school. They have nine months after finishing before starting payments and the payments can stretch out over 15 years.

Tidwell said that in only half the states does a state agency assume intermediate responsibility for student loans as in New York. He said this seems to work better than direct dealings between the students, schools and banks and the federal government.

One of the changes the Consumer Bankers Association is advocating is escalating payments instead of level payments. "Kids don't earn much their first few years out of college and level payments at that time on $10,000 in debt, or $20,000 if both husband and wife have gone through college on student loans, can be enormous," Tidwell pointed out.

One reason the Consumer Bankers Association thinks the program needs tightening and bank officials should do all the screening is that a surprising number of students don't seem to realize how much they have borrowed and are ardent when confronted with the bill after finishing school.

"The trouble is that the young man or young woman has gone through college on a combination of grants, perhaps some earnings, and borrowings. Since repayment doesn't start until months after finishing school, they don't bother to figure out just how much they are borrowing, or how they will repay it," a banker said.

Area Business News

UPI Business Feature

• Schools and colleges should be forbidden to do the screening and make the loans. All loans should be made by banks. "Since the schools ultimately are going to get the money, they shouldn't do the screening," Tidwell said. "The youngsters getting the loans should have to deal with a bank officer directly."

• The use of bill collection agencies to collect on defaulted loans should be permitted. "This is impractical under the present system," Tidwell said.

There is no present authoritative way to determine what proportion of all student loans are in default. The Federal Education Office has estimated the default rate at 14.5 percent and the General Accounting Office at 24.3 percent. Tidwell said default rates run above 40 percent in loans to vocational and proprietary school students.

KINGSTON Herzog's—located in the Kingston Plaza—will hold a formal opening of several new model bathrooms and powder rooms on Saturday, May 3.

Featuring the newest in bathroom fixtures and accessories, the models are designed to take up a minimum of space, which make them especially appropriate for homeowners who want to transform a small closet or unused space into an extra bathroom or powder room.

The Kingston Plaza store carries a full line of bathroom and plumbing supplies, including enameled steel bathtubs and sinks, medicine cabinets, china lavatories, styled vanities in a variety of designs and sizes, a complete line of Benjamin Moore paints, a wide range of wallpaper patterns, shower curtains, towels and accessories.

Although the formal opening is scheduled for Saturday, Herzog's will offer free gifts to the first 200 persons who view the new models beginning today.

Lloyd Lumber in Home Program

Lloyd Lumber has been selected by House & Garden as one of 10 home centers in the country to tie in to their special annual home improvement issue. Special events, to be conducted by a House & Garden editor, will take place exclusively at Baldwin Place on May 30 and in Westport, Conn. on May 31.

Deborah Brown, merchandising editor of House & Garden, will make personal appearances as commentator of a 25-minute slide presentation in each store. The slides will illustrate remodeled and redecorated rooms from recent issues of the magazine including the current May issue. Decorating with paint, creative uses of paneling, ingenious storage ideas are included.

"Add on" and "Make over" are the magazine's way of saying remodel. Live-in kitchens, bath-dressing rooms, and family rooms will be shown. In addition, there will be suggestions of products to buy, ideas for do-it-yourself projects both simple and ambitious and landscaping inspiration for porches, patios, decks and terraces.

Each month more than eight million readers look to House & Garden, a Conde Nast publication, for remodeling and home improvement ideas and news of products available in fine stores across the country.

How to save time, energy and money when remodeling is the theme of May House & Garden. Experts in architecture and interior design contribute their ideas to the pages which will come to life on the screen at Lloyd Lumber during Home Improvement Month.

Miss Brown, who directs merchandising services for the magazine, has been on the retail scene during her entire career. As merchandising editor, she will be traveling all over the country to give this slide presentation in leading home centers.

Redfern Buys Orchard Hill

ATLANTA, Ga. Redfern Foods Corporation (OTC) announced completion of the acquisition of all of the outstanding capital stock of Orchard Hill Farms, Inc. of Red Hook for an undisclosed consideration including cash and notes. The company had previously announced an agreement in principle for the acquisition on Feb. 13.

Orchard Hill Farms, Inc. produces an extensive number of prepared convenience foods including fruit pies, pot pies, frozen dinners and pre-cooked boil-in-bag items. Sales for its fiscal year ended June, 1974 were $10.4 million.

In 1974, Orchard Hill Farms, Inc. purchased the Libbyland children's dinner products from Libby McNeil & Libby. John F. Hoey will continue as president of Orchard Hill Farms, Inc. to be operated as a wholly owned subsidiary of Redfern Foods Corporation.

In recent years, Redfern Foods has been diversifying into a broader line of specialty and frozen food products from its established base in the beef and processed meats industry.

Regional Seminar

WHITE PLAINS A regional seminar that dealt, in part, with legislative programs affecting the New York State Association of Realtors, Inc. was held recently at White Plains.

The seminar was designed specifically for the lower Hudson Valley region, including the counties of Ulster, Dutchess, Orange, Sullivan, Putnam, Rockland and Westchester. Forty of the 300 realtors in attendance represented Ulster County.

Presiding officer for the day's seminar was Joan B. Isgro, president of Ulster County Realty, Inc. and regional vice-president of the New York State association.

Ms. Isgro outlined several legislative packages sponsored by or which will affect New York State Realtors, including:

• A bill that allows for the Mortgage Guarantee Insurance Corporations in New York State to insure loans for lending institutions requiring a down payment of between five percent and nine percent. The bill was written by the New York State association.

• A bill authorizing the establishment of a State of New York Mortgage Agency, which provides mortgage funds during periods of tight money.

• A bill which would establish greater educational qualifications for real estate licenses in New York State.

The seminar also included several sessions dealing with different aspects of the real estate business, including creative and innovative financing, operating a successful brokerage office, commercial, investment and industrial real estate, practical aspects of statutory regulations and tax benefits in real estate.

The guest speaker for the afternoon session of the seminar was John Grogan of Marketing Systems for Today.

Sentenced to Life For Killing Girl

FREEHOLD, N.J. (UPI) — Robert Zarinsky, a self-styled neo-Nazi and a former mental patient, has been sentenced to life in prison for the first-degree murder of a teen-age girl whose body never was found.

Superior Court Judge M. Raymond McGowan Wednesday imposed the sentence on the 34-year-old produce dealer moments after a six-man, six-woman jury returned the guilty verdict after six hours of deliberations.

Zarinsky was found guilty of murdering Rosemary Calandriello, 17, of Atlantic Highlands, N.J., who disappeared August 25, 1969, after leaving her home to go to a nearby milk store.

The prosecution charged that Zarinsky, who authorities say is a possible suspect in the murders of three other teenage girls, lured Miss Calandriello into his car, murdered her and then disposed of the body.

During the trial, several of the girl's friends testified they saw Miss Calandriello on the night she disappeared riding in a car police later identified as Zarinsky's. Police said the car had no interior door handles on the passenger side.

'Fly-In' Planned

HIGH FALLS

Hundreds of balloons will be sent aloft and a variety of exciting kite flying will be unfurled when the High Falls Civic Association holds its annual, public "Fly-In" Sunday, April 27 between 1 and 4 p.m. Site for the colorful event will be the Carleton Beach Field, Lucas Turnpike off Route 213 in High Falls.

Among the afternoon's activities will be a helicopter demonstration by Ernie Knitter, operator of the Ellenville Airport. Another event will be a radio controlled model airplane flying demonstration by Frank Tiano of the Aero Modelers Club of America.

A major highlight will be the sending aloft of several hundred helium-filled balloons, each carrying a self-addressed post card. Hopefully, many of the cards will be returned by those who eventually find the grounded balloons, and will write back telling where and at what time and day they were found. Expected to prove as exciting as the ascension of the balloons is the wide variety of kite flying planned for the day.

Working with the High Falls Civic Association in sponsoring the "Fly-In" are the Rondout Valley Schools and the Poughkeepsie Civil Air Patrol Squadron. The overall program is being headed up by

Schools to Observe Sojourner Truth Day

KINGSTON Kingston Consolidated Schools will be closed Friday in observance of Sojourner Truth Day—a day which honors a woman who was born a slave in Ulster County and went on to national fame as evangelist and human rights champion in the mid-19th century.

In 1973, the former School No. 8 Franklin Street, was re-dedicated as the Sojourner Truth School.

Just recently a statue of Sojourner Truth was moved from the old City Hall on Broadway to the elementary school.

One of the truly great eaders in black history, Sojourner was the daughter of James and Betsy Baumfree, slaves of Charles Hardenbergh in Ulster County and lived the first years of her life at the Hardenbergh Inn.

Gang Recruitment Sparks Gun Battle

CHICAGO (UPI) — A gun battle between police and a sniper in a South Side apartment building was touched off by a street gang recruitment drive that left one person dead and another seriously injured, police said today.

Police Investigator John Merriweather said that the shootings began when four members of the Black P Stone Nation street gang approached Willie Robinson, 23, and his girl friend Wednesday as they walked through the Dearborn Housing Project and ordered him to join the gang "or else".

Robinson refused and the four began beating him with a wine bottle. Robinson was battered to the ground, then pulled a .38 caliber pistol and opened fire at his assailants, Merriweather said.

Robinson shot and killed Alvin Lewis, 25, hitting him once in the mouth, and seriously wounded Willie Greenleaf. Greenleaf was hospitalized in serious condition with bullet wounds in the chest, abdomen and arm.

One of the assailants, identified by police as Larry Cole, 17, then ran into the apartment building to get a carbine. As he picked up the weapon, Merriweather said, Cole

Early Opening Opposed

KINGSTON — Employees involved have vetoed a proposal to open the windows of the Ulster County Motor Vehicle Bureau one hour earlier.

The County Clerk Committee of the Ulster County Legislature has been studying the plan, which would open the windows one hour earlier at 8 a.m. Monday through Friday. Employees would still work the same number of hours, with those starting at 8 a.m. leaving an hour earlier at 4 p.m., according to County Clerk Albert Spada.

To lessen possible future grievances, arrangements were made with the Civil Service Employees Association to permit employees involved to vote on the proposal.

Spada said the plan would have provided added service to the public but he will abide by the employee decision. Department mail transactions are averaging 400 a day and the total receipts for 1974 were approximately $3.5 million, he noted.

Armed Radicals Hit Embassy

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Gunmen armed with sub-machine guns and possibly explosives shot their way into the West German embassy today, injuring several people and taking others as hostages. The West German ambassador apparently was one of those seized.

Police said initial reports indicated that possibly one person had been killed inside the embassy, but that it was not yet possible to confirm the reports.

Stockholm police inspector Karl Eric Stenbeck said it was possible the terrorists were part of the German Andreas Baader-Ulrike Meinhof urban guerrilla gang, a group of left-wing anarchists who have terrorized West Germany for years in their attempts to overthrow law and order. They were named for two of their martyrs.

Police said originally it was thought that two gunmen entered the building, but later reports from a woman who managed to get out said that there were three men and two women who assaulted the four-story structure on embassy row.

The German news agency DPA received a telephone call in Stockholm saying that a group calling itself the "Holger Meins Commando" carried out the attack on the embassy.

"We have taken possession... of the West German ambassador to Stockholm in order that political prisoners in West Germany be liberated," the statement said. "If there is a rescue attempt for the ambassador, we will ignite 15 kilos (33 pounds) of TNT," the anonymous caller said.

Police sent all available units and specially equipped riot police with bulletproof vests to the scene, but stayed in the background because of sporadic automatic weapons fire from the embassy.

The West German urban guerrillas have been accused of attempting to blow up U.S. military installations in West Germany and of terrorizing politicians.

Their most recent feat was the kidnapping Feb. 27 of Peter Lorenz, leader of West Berlin's Christian Democratic Union and a candidate for mayor. His chauffeur, was beaten unconscious. Lorenz freed after the West German government paid $50,000 ransom and gave the kidnapers a Boeing 747 jumbo jet to fly them to safety in Marxist Southern Yemen.

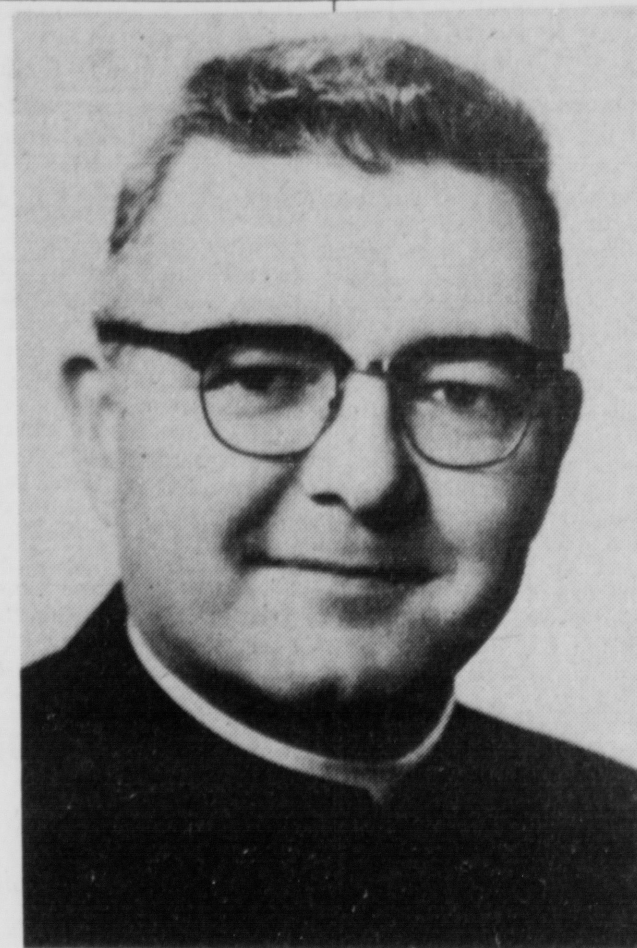

After the kidnapping police raided suspected anarchist groups throughout West Germany in a search for members of the group that is believed to have ties with the extreme leftwing Red Army of Japan which has cooperated with Arab terrorists in airplane hijackings and a slaughter at the Tel Aviv airport.

Today,
88 million
adult Americans will drink
a cup of coffee.
But 102 million
will read a newspaper.

For most people, reading a newspaper is an indispensable part of everyday life. 77% of us, 18 and over, read a newspaper on the average weekday, according to a recent nationwide study by Audits & Surveys, Inc.

And newspaper reading is such an ingrained habit that over a five day period, 89% of us read at least one newspaper and the average reader sees 4.3 issues. In other words, just about every one of us reads the newspaper just about every day.

On the average we spend 30 to 40 minutes with each paper we read, and we go through it so thoroughly that we open and read something on 84% of the pages.

We get involved with the newspaper, too. We quote from it, write letters to it, clip articles and ads out of it, buy things by mail on its say-so, and talk about what we've read in it. 93% of all readers have done these things at one time or another. Just about everybody.

So if you're an advertiser and your problem is to find a sure way to reach everybody every day, you've got the answer in hand. The daily newspaper.

For Friday, April 25, 1975
ARIES (March 21-April 19)
This could be an expensive day if you get involved in a business area you're unfamiliar with. Avoid complicated deals.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Plan first as to how you'll handle important matters today. Your on-the-spot decisions are not reliable.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Don't try to palm-off tasks you should be doing. You'll only have to do them later — with a possible penalty.
CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Don't jump in too hastily on a business tip you may learn of from an influential contact. It isn't that good.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Be wary: Don't unthinkingly say or do something today that will cause a serious breach between you and a close friend.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Don't try to run the show within your clique today. Be democratic. Let everyone have a voice.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
If you try to rule the roost with too heavy a hand today, the family may take some steps to dethrone you. Walk softly. Forego the big stick.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
A goal you have in mind today will not be in accord with an associate's, yet you must do what's best for you. He'll understand in the long run.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Be extra-careful when traveling today. Keep a sharp eye on those who share the road, whether you're walking or driving.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Little things you would normally overlook in others tend to irritate you today. Be conscious of this. Avoid nitpicking.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
In your eagerness to satisfy a whim, you're likely to pay far more for something than you would if you were in a more practical mood.

Your Birthday

April 25, 1975

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
You may have to set your desires aside the next few days in order to meet demands of others. Just don't be a complete patsy.

You'll form some unusual alliances this year. They'll take you off on new paths. It will work out well if your associates know where you're going, even if you don't.

Unlucky Expert Does It Again

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The unlucky expert had cornered us again. He started out with, "Team of four has to be my most unlucky game. I have three partners to toss me around there. Look at this hand that cost us a match."

"I sat West. I considered a seven-heart bid for some time, but finally gave up the idea. I was afraid that if my partner did not hold the ace of diamonds the opponents would bid and make seven spades. Obviously North was void of hearts."

"Good reasoning," we replied. "What diamond did you lead?"

"The queen. My partner took his ace, thought for a while as I sweated it out and finally led a club for me to ruff."

We have to omit the rest of our friend's talk. It was all expletives deleted. The substance was that at the other table his North-South partners bid up to five spades with their cards and when West bid six hearts, North proceeded to double. Then to complete the rout, South opened his singleton diamond. East made his heart slam with an overtrick.

VALERIE (L), SUSAN FORD (UPI)

Quite a Night at the Embassy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The daughters of two presidents, Valerie Anne Giscard d'Estaing and Susan Ford, shared equal billing Wednesday night at gala, youth-oriented dinner-dance held at the French Embassy.

A large contingent of children and younger relatives of administration officials mixed with the adults at the party, staged by French Ambassador Jacques Koschusko-Morizet, which featured colored balloons labeled Valerie Anne and a rock band.

Miss Giscard, exotic and dark-haired in a classic white draped gown, sat across from Susan, 17, blonde and redressed. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., entered and came to their table. Photographers edged in and the balloons pushed out of camera view flew to the ceiling.

Although fauged by jet lag and language strain, she seemed aglow through the night. "That's her job," the ambassador said.

Valerie Anne met Susan earlier Wednesday, toured the White House and met First Lady Betty Ford. French aides said she was impressed with "the warmth, friendliness and openness" of the Ford family.

Miss d'Estaing will be crowned Queen of the Azalea Festival in Norfolk, Va., later this week. Miss Ford was queen of last year's festival.

Miss d'Estaing remained at her dinner table while Susan danced with the charge d'affaires and the French ambassador. Then she picked up her skirts and stomped her heels in time with the rock music.

The party of about 150 people included young faces like Defense Secretary James Schlesinger's 18-year-old daughter Cora, who said, "I've never been to anything like this before."

Other guests included daughters of Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller, Carol and Wendy Murphy; the daughter of Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, Margaret, and his son, Wade; Valerie Anne's uncle, Comte de Brantes and his wife, and other established diplomatic faces and administration members.

Leftists Denounce Portugal Elections

LISBON (UPI) — Leaders of five extreme left splinter groups have denounced Friday's National Elections as a farce and called on workers to take up arms and overthrow the government in a May Day revolution.

The leftist leaders, who are not believed to command wide support, issued their call for a new revolution May 1 in radio addresses Wednesday night, winding up their electoral campaigns.

Brig. Otelo Saraiva de Carvalho, the military security chief, went on national television early today to warn that the military would put down with force any outbreak of violence during the voting Friday for a 247-member constituent assembly to draft a new constitution.

Carvalho made no mention of the threatened May Day violence by the leftist groups.

Leaders of the five parties repeated earlier statements that the elections were a farce. They said their followers would kick off a new revolution to oust the present "bourgeois" military-led Government during a joint May Day demonstration.

They urged workers to take up arms and overthrow the regime, which celebrates its first anniversary in power Friday.

Many Portuguese, including former soldiers who fought in the country's African wars, have weapons. The government, in a decree published today, gave all citizens one month to turn in their weapons or face fines.

Carvalho, in his statement today, said: "The armed forces want the elections to be conducted in a civil manner. The Copcon (Military Security Forces) will be vigilant, and we will use force if necessary to deal with violence."

President Francisco da Costa Gomes was expected to make a final appeal for electoral calm in a televised address to the nation later today.

There have been recent scattered clashes among Communists, Maoists and other political groups to their right — but far fewer than many government officials feared.

More than 6 million voters will cast ballots Friday for delegates to a 247-member constituent assembly to approve a new constitution.

The military regime, which came to power in a coup a year ago, has billed the balloting as Portugal's first free election in 49 years.

However, much of the meaning went out of the voting when the Communist-backed Armed Forces Movement announced last month it had decided to retain most fundamental governmental powers for the next three to five years.

The government, which has been moving steadily toward the left since taking power, has already drafted a constitution for the assembly to approve.

Free Coverage Near For Refugees

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Health insurance for refugee children from Indochina is closer to reality than insurance protection for this nation's jobless and their families.

Two private insurance companies have offered to give the children free health insurance coverage while Congress is still wrangling with a measure to cover the unemployed.

Blue Shield, in a telegram to 71 local branches, said its national board in Chicago decided April 6 "that all Blue Shield plans be urged to take steps to insure that Vietnamese orphans — even though they are not yet legally adopted — be covered as soon as they are placed in the home of a Blue Shield subscriber having family coverage."

Blue Cross said: "A subscriber who accepts a Vietnamese orphan whether for adoption or until the child can be placed permanently does not need to notify the plan. Coverage is automatic. When health care is needed, to receive benefits the child need only be identified as a Vietnamese child with a subscriber family."

Most local branches already are providing such coverage, a Blue Cross official said Wednesday, estimating about 1,700 children would be immediately covered.

Congressional wrangling has stalled health insurance coverage for the unemployed victims of recession. The latest example was issued today by the House Ways and Means Committee, which announced an 18-13 vote for a plan to provide emergency health insurance for 6.3 million unemployed workers and 7.7 million dependents.

The plan would provide insurance through a 1 percent federal tax on group health insurance premiums. Other proposals in Congress would pay insurance subsidies for the jobless out of general tax money — one the major problems stalling the bill.

"With the rate of unemployment standing at 8.7 percent and expected to rise further before it levels off, the loss of health insurance during periods of unemployment has become a national problem of critical urgency," the majority said.

"We oppose this legislation because it is inequitable, inflationary and will be expensive and difficult to administer," said a dissent from 11 committee Republicans.

Ford Not Yet A Legal Candidate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It takes more than Ron Nessen saying so to make President Ford a legal candidate for president.

On Monday, Ford said, "you haven't heard me say categorically I was going to be a candidate." He explained by saying "it is better for me not to be open to the charge that I am making a decision for one political reason or another."

He said "no one knows" the point at which a person becomes a candidate under the equal time regulation. It seemed unlikely Nessen's statement would have that effect, the spokesman said, but it was uncertain.

The official said former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., sought to invoke the equal time provision against former President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1967 but was turned down by the courts.

Under the new federal election law, according to a Federal Elections Office official, candidacy becomes formal when an individual begins to raise or spend money, or authorizes someone else to do so, in seeking a federal office or when the individual is placed on a ballot.

Gov. George Wallace of Alabama and Sens. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., Walter Mondale, D-Minn., and Charles Percy, R-Ill., had to report campaign finances when they formed "exploratory committees" last year, even though Mondale and Percy subsequently dropped out.

Ford has not set up or authorized anyone to collect or spend campaign funds on his behalf and so is not a legal candidate. "A mere declaration," the official said, "does not bring him under the law."

Farm Bill Veto A Certainty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has told congressional leaders that President Ford will veto the emergency farm support bill. One of them is ready to try and pass the bill in spite of a veto.

Butz paid courtesy calls to the chairmen of the House and Senate Agriculture committees Wednesday, telling Rep. Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., and Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., of the impending veto.

Butz, interviewed later, said he did not know exactly when Ford would act on the bill, but hoped it would be "as promptly as feasible."

"Everybody knows what the decision is, and there's no use dragging it out. If you do that, you just create confusion among farmers, traders and others," he said.

Foley said the House leadership has made no decision yet but added that he told Butz "my intention is to recommend we proceed" with an override vote although he considered the outcome "doubtful."

Quints Doing Fine

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Newborn quintuplets were still not out of the critical first 72-hour period today, but reports from doctors on the health of the infants continued to be positive.

"The babies are doing as well as can be expected," physicians at General Hospital reported late Wednesday. "They are better than last night and improving."

There was nothing to indicate the three girls and two boys born to Mr. and Mrs. Mark Levy of Fairfield, Ohio, should not survive, although doctors emphasized the first few days were the most critical for small, premature quintuplets.

"The 72-hour critical period" cited by Dr. James M. Sutherland, in charge of the premature nursery where the infants are being closely watched, does not end until Friday afternoon.

The quintuplets were born late Tuesday afternoon and were the first children for the Levys.

Nurses reported the babies were "active and healthy looking," not unlike any other new babies, except in size.

The quintuplets ranged in weight from 3 pounds, 3 ounces to 4 pounds, 14 ounces, and doctors figured they should begin picking up weight today.

Levy, 27, a Procter & Gamble Co. advertising department staffer, and his wife, Pamela, 28, say they haven't had time yet to come up with names.
